WILLKIE HERE, SEES VICTORY SURE IN N. E.

Willkie in Massachusetts—Huge crowd turns out to greet Republican Presidential Candidate Wendell Lewis Willkie at Buttonwood Park, New Bedford, as G. O. P. cavalcade swung triumphantly into Massachusetts today. Willkie, pleased by the enthusiasm shown by the throng, said: "If this is Massachusetts, I'm confident the Republicans have won it." He predicted victory in five of six New England states.

SHIPS BOMBARD CHERBOURG

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Light and heavy forces of the British fleet blasted German-held Cherbourg into flames during the night, it was officially reported, while the far ranging RAF slashed anew at warships in the German naval base of Wilhelmshaven and the great Krupp shipyards at Kiel.

Conflagrations started at Cherbourg, on the German-held "invasion coast" of France, by the cannonading warships and co-operating bombing planes could be seen for 40 miles, the admiralty reported—or about half-way across the English channel opposite Portsmouth.

The assault on Cherbourg was unchallenged, the admiralty reported, except for the firing of German shore batteries when the British vessels were en route home.

4 LONDON ATTACKS ROUTED

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP)—This capital's defenders aground and aloft were reported to have hurled back four separate German air thrusts today and to have turned the fifth into a great twisting sky battle over the southeast coast.

The fifth alarm of the day came at tea time when German planes swept in over Kent, dodging in and out of cloud banks to escape the withering fire of coastal anti-aircraft batteries.

Suddenly a large force of RAF fighters appeared and the drone and scream of planes in combat in the fleecy clouds could be heard. One of the raiders was reported shot down in the vicinity of Kingsmill.

MACHINE-GUN STREETS

A swift succession of air raids and all-clear signals, the rumble of anti-aircraft fire and the drone of protecting planes told Londoners the story of attack and defense.

While massed German planes were roaring over the southeast coast this morning, only to be tackled inland by Britain's heavily-armed Spitfires and Hurricanes, one of the attackers was reported by residents have machine-gunned the streets of a coastal town in a dive attack.

The Nazi raiders roared over England anew after breaking off their regular night attack much earlier than usual. They were believed to have dropped many time bombs on the embattled island during the widespread dusk to dawn assaults.

LIVERPOOL BOMBED

Liverpool dispatches said 40 high explosive bombs dropped on its port and shipyards in the longest raid of the war in that area, resulting in several casualties. Three bombs narrowly missed a movie theater.

Several narrow escapes were reported in London night raids. One hundred employees of a London club escaped injury when a bomb fell near their basement.

The RAF's raids, however, were carried out in the face of intense anti-aircraft fire.

Berlin admitted the attack but said only one cruiser had attacked and that it was driven off by coastal battery fire.—Editor's note.

NO LOSS BY FLEET

The admiralty, commenting on the apparent German unwillingness to send their ships out to fight, said that "it was known that enemy light forces were at Cherbourg."

The fleet suffered no damage or casualties in the sortie, the communiqué said. Such attacks have been rare in the war between Germany and Britain.

Cherbourg, one of France's great pre-war seaports, a naval station and fortified town, had a peacetime population of about 33,000.

Nazis Admit Heavy Loss In Hamburg Bombing

BERLIN, Oct. 11 (AP)—The great north German port of Hamburg suffered considerably last night at the hands of British air raiders, the official German news agency DNB reported today, listing casualties at three killed, 15 wounded and many slightly injured.

The Dutch city of Amsterdam was also bombed by the British and civilians were killed and wounded. "Devastation visible over a radius of one kilometer (five-eighths of a mile)" was done by the British air raiders in a densely populated section of Hamburg, DNB reported.

Another section was said to have been left "a shambles of ashes."

18 DEAD IN AMSTERDAM

The attack on Amsterdam the second heavy assault on the Dutch city this week, was said to have taken a toll of 18 dead and 20 injured.

DNB, in a summary of British raids the last two nights, said at least a score of persons had been killed and many more injured in Germany.

Cities visited last night, said the agency, included Düsseldorf, Cologne, Leipzig and Magdeburg, Castrop-Rauxel and Essen. Thirty houses in a Cologne suburb were damaged, at Leipzig two bombs fell on a hospital and an industrial section medical institute.

ALTAR RIPPED BY BOMB—Historic St. Paul's Cathedral in London is shown after it had been struck by a Nazi air bomb. The famous bronze and ebony altar was badly damaged as were several pieces of the historic furnishings. Luckily, the great dome of the Cathedral remained unscathed.

British-Rumanian Break Near

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Sir Reginald Hoare, British minister to Rumania, has notified Premier Gen. Ion Antonescu that relations between Britain and Rumania have reached "a critical point," it was announced here tonight.

A statement issued by authoritative sources said the minister had outlined to the premier his information concerning German military penetration into Rumania and had spoken of the strain caused by arrests and alleged ill-treatment of British citizens in Rumania.

The statement further said there was reason to believe an agreement had been reached with the German government even before Antonescu assumed office—when King Carol abdicated—for the dispatch to Rumania of German armored divisions.

These sources said Germans in uniform first were reported arriving in Rumania early in September.

A dispatch from Athens said the visit of a Greek military mission to Berlin was canceled at the last moment. No explanation was given as Greece watched developments in southeastern Europe anxiously.—Editor's Note.

Nazi Planes Fly Over Rumanian Oil Fields

BUCHAREST, Oct. 11 (AP)—Tightly packed formations, totaling about 150 planes, some bearing German markings and others Rumanian insignia, flew back and forth over Bucharest and the oil towns of Ploesti and Giurgiu today. They swooped low over the British legation in Bucharest where the staff was speeding its packing up.

They patrolled east and west and north and south methodically. At one time 68 planes were over the capital.

At the same time German aviators arrived at their hotel opposite the royal palace where two floors had been reserved for 45 German officers.

The display of the German Luftwaffe was made as German officials circles charged through their mouthpiece in Rumania, The Tageblatt, that Turkey had been assigned by Great Britain the task of attacking Rumanian oil wells from the air and that the British ambassador, Sir Reginald Hoare, was an accomplice in the plan.

A breaking-off of Rumanian-British diplomatic relations appeared closer hourly.

Hail Willkie in Hub, Sees N. E. Victory

By AUSTEN LAKE

Immense throngs in Roxbury and Back Bay streets roared a rousing, breath-taking Boston welcome this afternoon to Wendell L. Willkie.

Bare-headed, the big-framed, shaggy-haired man from Indiana rode into the city exactly on schedule although record-making crowds along his line of march from New Bedford had threatened time and again to stall the Willkie cavalcade. So impressed was he by his reception in Massachusetts' industrial cities and towns that he predicted the G. O. P. would win the Bay State handsomely in November and that, furthermore, Republicans would count ultimate victories in four other New England States.

But confident as he was of Massachusetts' vote, never once did he let up on the heavy fire he had centered on the New Deal from the time he made his first address in New Bedford. Continually lashing the Administration's tax policies, the challenger declared:

"We must seek three things—a strong defense, a sound domestic economy and unity in this country. Regardless of how we may vote we must be united. We must not become disunited."

HAS WONDERFUL TIME

"The New Deal's program of 'splitting the country into classes makes me sick,' Willkie told countless thousands of his hearers at half a dozen points along his triumphal procession through 15 cities and towns.

At New Bedford, start of his ride, the candidate was surprised at the welcoming crowd of 50,000 which lined the streets. At Fall River, with a similar throng, he said:

"I'm having a wonderful time." At Taunton, he was amazed at the outpouring. At Brockton, words failed him, for here, along both sides of wide Legion Parkway men and women were packed so deep the campaign cavalcade had to slow up in passing.

At Quincy, whose streets were black with a noontime crowd that sacrificed lunch periods to get a glimpse of the iron-man campaigner, Willkie paused at Christ Church, "Church of the Presidents," to pay a passing tribute to the Adams family which had sent two sons to the White House. Democratic Mayor Thomas S. Burzle greeted him warmly there.

FRUIT HITS WILLKIE

Republicans had turned out with about 500 placards reading "We Want Willkie," and in Quincy sq. Mrs. Willkie received more bouquets to add to the mass of flower-filled shoulder high in her automobile seat. In Milton the crowd that had gathered at Kenigans' Corner, where Brook rd. turns toward Mattapan, slowed up the procession again.

Ten minutes late at Mattapan sq. where more than 2000 persons were waiting, the cavalcade received another rousing reception, although a discordant note was struck when someone hurled two pieces of overripe fruit at the candidate's car and one piece hit Willkie in the chest.

Willkie paid but little attention to the fruit, only wiping it off his vest, and continued to wave in response to the cheers and shouts of welcome.

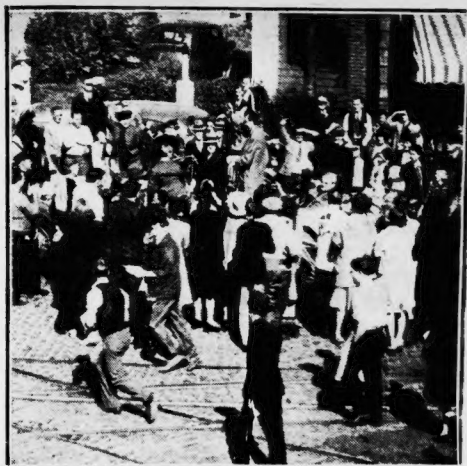

Along Blue Hill ave. the sidewalks were lined two or three persons deep but the cavalcade was able to make up some time. I was at Egleston sq. Roxbury, that another throng of more than 2000 broke out from the sidewalk, blocked the street and slowed down the procession again. The scene was repeated at Roxbury Crossing. At Notre Dame Academy in Roxbury the nuns and their hundreds of charges young schoolgirls in white middie and dark skirts, lined the sidewalk. Students from the nearby New England Hospital were out to do their cheering, while the windows and balconies of the institution were filled with patients, nurses and doctors.

At Jackson sq., an enthusiastic, grey-haired citizen on a rooftop, waving the United States flag in his right hand and the flag of Erie in the other, drew a salute from the candidate as he shouted in a voice that could be heard above the crowd's yell:

"Hurrah for Wendell Willkie. God bless Willkie!"

By the time the cavalcade had

Throng in Mattapan Gives Willkie Cheer

At 1:09 p. m. Wendell Willkie's long black touring car crossed, through cheering throngs, over the stone bridge above the Neponset river at Mattapan square and thus the presidential candidate officially arrived in Boston.

He was then 10 minutes late.

A short while before he appeared a sound truck, covered with Willkie banners, passed along the route, a speaker inside announced monotonously, over and over:

"Willkie is coming. He will soon be here."

At the announcement the crowd, mostly of women and children and a sprinkling of men, broke into roars of approval.

At noontime there had been only a few score persons on the bridge and along Blue Hill ave., but the crowd grew rapidly. Employers let most of the clerks in the stores out, and by 1 p. m. there were 2000 persons near the bridge.

Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty was there. Police Superintendent Edward W. Fallon, Lieut. James V. Crowley from headquarters with 19 plainclothesmen, five MDC officers, five Boston motorcycle policemen, and a detail of officers from the Mattapan station under Capt. Francis J. Murphy.

When the screaming sirens of the State Police motorcycles in the cavalcade first sounded, the crowd, very orderly up till then, suddenly broke loose.

Several spectators narrowly escaped being run down by the motorcycles. Supt. Fallon swung into the line of march, his chauffeur turning his machine in ahead of the Willkie car, the superintendent himself hanging off the running board.

A tremendous roar went up as Willkie himself appeared, tousle-headed as ever, sitting well up the back of his car as the cavalcade went through with barely a pause.

Street car traffic along Blue Hill ave. was halted as spectators surged over the tracks.

HITLER CONSUL AIDE HITS GOODWIN RAP AS 'INSULT'

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin's comment that "an American diplomat who failed to answer a court summons in Germany probably would be put in a concentration camp" was an "insult," Kurt Boehme, assistant German consul in Boston, emphasized today.

At the same time Boehme said Dr. Herbert Scholz—the consul here whose failure to answer a simple parking violation summons to Newton court precipitated a minor tempest that promises to become international in scope—has "discussed" the matter with the German embassy in Washington.

"Dr. Scholz wishes to co-operate in every way possible with civil authorities in Boston," Boehme said. "He received no police notification of the violation, simply a summons, to which he sent a reply. He received no reply in return."

CONSUL'S LAWYER THERE

"He has no desire to make an international situation out of this simple matter. At the same time, Mr. Goodwin's treatment of me was an insult."

Dr. Scholz's lawyer, Atty. Edward Farmer, appeared before Judge Donald E. Mayberry in Newton district court today and was granted a continuance of the case until Oct. 17 so that he might have time, he explained, to file a motion to quash the case on the grounds of a phrase in the German-American Friendship Treaty of 1923.

CONSUL'S LETTER

Though the American constitutional guarantee of diplomatic immunity to civil action applies only to ambassadors and their staffs, not to consuls—who are regarded as commercial rather than diplomatic agents—still the clause of which Dr. Scholz rests his claim was explained in a letter to Newton Clerk of Courts James P. Gallagher.

The letter—which Gallagher said he did not answer—was dated Oct. 7 from the Boston consulate and said:

"The enclosed summons was given to my butler at my home on Kessey-er rd., Brighton, on Oct. 4 by a police officer."

"The German-American Friendship Treaty, Clause 18, says that a consular officer, a national of his country and not engaged in any private business, may be requested to act as a witness in a court case, but that his testimony in the case may be taken orally or in writing at whatever place he wishes at his convenience."

NO TRIAL PROVISION

"It says the officer may give his testimony at a trial if it does not seriously interfere with his duties. There is no provision for a consular officer having to stand trial."

"Therefore I should thank you for advising me of what procedure the court proposes to follow in this matter."

This same treaty clause was explained in a similar manner to Goodwin, who then made the comment that an American diplomat who followed the same procedure in Germany would end in a concentration camp.

Goodwin said he only carried out the provisions of the law in revoking the consul's license when he failed to answer the summons.

"The good doctor has only himself to blame for not going to Newton court within 10 days after he got the summons," Goodwin said.

"The law is good enough for Americans and it's good enough for the consul. When he gets back into the good graces of the court, I'll automatically give him back the right to drive."

"Furthermore, I don't know what all this talk about giving him back his license is, because he hasn't even got one. I found that out. He let it lapse six months ago."

"As far as I can see, the only advantage he gets out of being a consul is that he won't have to pay to have his license renewed, as an ordinary citizen would."

Hal Roach's Wife Plans to Sue Him

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11 (AP)—Mrs. Hal Roach, wife of the film producer, disclosed today she plans to file suit for separate maintenance, ending a marriage which was 24 years old last Sunday.

Roach could not be reached for comment, but a friend said he recently expressed the view permanent separation was "inevitable." The couple, leaders in film society, have two children, Hal Jr., married last May to Dolly Hunt, Pasadena society girl, and Margaret. Both have been working recently at their father's studio.

Shirley Temple Set to Sign $200,000-a-Year Contract

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
(Motion Picture Editor International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11 (INS)—As exclusively reported in my daily column, Shirley Temple, golden child of the box office for five years, is about to sign a contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for a sum reported to be around $100,000 a picture for two pictures yearly.

For the past 10 days the deal has been under way, with Mrs. Temple, Shirley's mother, paying almost daily visits to Louis B. Mayer's office, and Frank Orsatti in New York conferring with Nicholas Schenck. Now all the details have been ironed out to the satisfaction of everyone involved and Shirley will rank with Mickey Rooney, Clark Gable, Robert Taylor, Spencer Tracy, Joan Crawford,

WIFE SAYS MATE, 74, LIKE PLAYBOY

When Morris Backer, Arlington hardware dealer, married the widow, Minnie, she thought he was a middle-aged man, but discovered after the marriage he was 74 years old.

She testified today in Middlesex Probate Court during hearing of her uncontested petition for divorce on grounds of cruelty.

"Despite his age, he was out almost every night playing cards, leaving me all alone," Mrs. Backer testified. "On the few occasions he did stay home he played solitaire and refused to teach me to play."

The petition was taken under advisement.

Mrs. Felicia M. Davis was granted an uncontested divorce from James T. Davis of Medford, after testifying that he was "continually and habitually intoxicated and had stolen her rings—even her wedding ring—to get money for liquor."

"One night, when I went home from work," she said, "I found a sign on the door which read: 'Take your clothes and get out!'"

A decree was granted to Mrs. Palmeda M. Harthertz from George Harthertz, Framingham florist, on grounds of cruelty.

"On one occasion," she testified, "he invited me into a cafe for coffee and a sandwich and was so drunk when I had paid

FIREMAN INJURED, WIFE WAITS STORK

While his young wife waited for him to take her to a Cambridge maternity hospital today, William Murphy, 32-year-old private attached to Engine 5 of the Cambridge fire department, fell 40 feet from a ladder during a fire drill and was injured, perhaps fatally.

At Cambridge City Hospital doctors said Murphy, who lives in Chestnut st., Cambridge, sustained a possible fracture of the skull, internal and other injuries, his name was on the danger list and they feared he would not live.

Members of the family, meanwhile, strove to keep the news from his wife, who was to enter the Wyman House of the New Maternity Hospital at Cambridge today.

Murphy had gone from Engine 5 house in Inman sq. to Cambridge fire headquarters in Lincoln sq. across from Harvard Memorial Hall, to participate a 35-foot ladder that had been raised against the side of the building.

The entire company was rehearsing in preparation for exercises to be conducted at 10 a. m. tomorrow in Central sq. as part of fire prevention week.

Other members of the department said Murphy had been to the top of the high ladder and had just started down when it began to slide along the face of the wall.

He fell and landed on the cement driveway.

The falling ladder crashed across the feet of another private at Engine 5, William Lively, 30, of Putnam ave., who was also taken to Cambridge City Hospital with fractured toes.

N. E. QUIET DELIGHTS REFUGEES

On the shore divided by 3000 miles from that other shore which is home, 49 British refugee children took a stroll today in Winthrop, their first full day here, away from the terrors of bombardment and war.

Walking after their first fully comfortable and quiet night in months, the boys and girls had orange juice, porridge, bacon and eggs and toast for breakfast, and then were eager for the sights.

They were somewhat surprised that there was no great expanse of beach near the Cliff House in Grover's ave., where they are quartered, but they were told there are wider beaches to the north and south.

Arriving yesterday in Winthrop, they will remain there pending arrangements for placing them throughout the State.

Youngest of the children, 6-year-old Robin Sleep of Surrey, was persuaded with difficulty to remove his gas mask. He was accompanied by his brother, Bryan, 11.

CHURCHILL THEIR HERO

Many of the children found letters awaiting them from their parents. Selectman Thomas Keye came to Cliff House to supervise arrangements for the youngsters.

They ranged in age from four to 14 and their favorite hero is Winston Churchill, better known to them as "Bulldog Bill."

"Our King and Queen are wonderful," one little girl said. "They don't have to have a bodyguard and their house gets bombed just as ours did."

One small boy struck a pathetic note when he said, "I can't realize they don't have blackouts in America. I feel guilty every time I turn on a light."

Most of the children had been bombed and some of them had slept in the London subway. They declared that Londoners are not terrified by the raids, but that they are dizzy from the lack of sleep.

As to America, "We want some of those Boston baked beans we've heard about." "Is it true you've got some White Mountains here where we can go skiing?"

"We didn't see half enough of New York." "We're tired of having to wave at your photographers. American trains are a lot better than ours and you've got much, much bigger airplanes," were some of the comments.

The children came into New York on the liner Scythia and their worst trouble was seasickness.

Pennsylvanians Hail F.D. on Defense Trip

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11 (AP) — With the top Democratic leaders of Pennsylvania in tow, President Roosevelt toured America's first steel city and its suburbs today to see smoke-belching industrial plants turning out armor plate and forging guns for a $15,000,000,000 effort to rearm the nation.

MATE "CRUEL"—Pictured in Suffolk court today is Mrs. Rose Carotta of Lexington st., East Boston, who won a divorce on grounds of cruelty. (Story on Page 8).

F. D., Jr., Thinks Willkie Fine Man, But Dad Better

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 11 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie is a "very fine man," in the view of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., who thinks, however, that "my old man is a little more capable" of being President.

Speaking at a political forum at the New Jersey College for Women last night, Roosevelt struck at what he said were rumors the President was preparing the country for war, and asserted his father "loves peace," adding:

"You cannot, knowing ather, say honestly that he would give up his faith in democracy to thrust us into war merely to win the election."

HUB JEWRY OBSERVES YOM KIPPUR

This evening ushers in one of the holiest days in the Jewish calendar—Yom Kippur.

The observance, which begins on the eve of the 10th day of Kishri and marks the Jewish Day of Atonement, will last until sundown tomorrow.

It is a day set aside for the individual to commune with his God, to repent of his sins and to atone for any wrongs done to himself or his fellow men during the year.

Observed for one day by orthodox, conservative and reform Jews throughout the world as a day of fasting, Yom Kippur is devoted to prayer and meditation in the synagogue. The observance dates from the latter days of the second Temple, when it was established as "The Great Day" in the Jewish year.

The synagogue service on the eve of Yom Kippur opens with the Kol Nidre, a prayer set to music.

This year the Day of Atonement will be observed with special significance by Jews throughout a world in which national and racial strife have brought as much suffering.

G.O.P. Sees Roosevelt On the Run in Ohio

CLEVELAND, Oct. 11 (AP)—David S. Ingalls, Republican national committeeman, said today Ohio Republicans welcome President Roosevelt's inspection tour because they consider it an indication the New Deal high command has concluded Mr. Roosevelt "is on the run in Ohio."

"It is significant," Ingalls said, "that the 'inspection' trip which originally intended only one stop, Dayton, has now been expanded as to include Youngstown and possibly Niles, Newton Falls, Ravenna and Akron."

Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee, will make a second Ohio tour next Wednesday.

John P. Moore Rites Set for Tomorrow

Solemn requiem mass will be celebrated tomorrow in St. Thomas Aquinas Church, Jamaica Plain, for John P. Moore, 70, of Boston, retired Carnegie Steel Corp. executive.

Mr. Moore, formerly with the Postal Telegraph Co., died at his home after a short illness. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Ruth A. O'Brien, Mrs. Mary B. Oswald and Mrs. Nora Hofnagle and a son, Joseph, all of Jamaica Plain. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery, West Roxbury.

2 DIVORCE CRUEL HUBBIES

Because the attractive Mrs. Christine Bryant of Kelton st., Allston, took up hairdressing to support her medical student husband, Carroll Bryant, Jr., he objected and left her, she testified today in Suffolk probate court.

Petitioning for a divorce on cruelty grounds, she testified that last January while he was studying for examinations he became nervous and irritable.

"When I suggested a visit to my parents in Springfield he threw me against a wall and bruised me," she told Judge John V. Mahoney.

"On another occasion when I suggested having our marriage blessed by a priest he struck me with a book making my nose bleed."

Mrs. Bryant testified that last New Year's Eve, when she invited a girl friend hairdresser to the house her husband called the girl "cheap."

She was given an uncontested decree and the right to resume her maiden name of Mourissey.

Mrs. Constance Vickers of Arnold st., Revere, won an uncontested decree from Clarence Vickers of Waltham on grounds of cruelty, and granted the right to resume her maiden name.

Another uncontested petition was that of Mrs. Rose Carvotta of Lexington st., East Boston, against Cosmo Carvotta on grounds of cruelty.

"When I reprimanded him for striking our daughter, Catherine, 18, he tried to choke me," Mrs. Carvotta testified.

Wheeler Sees U. S. On Brink of Jap War

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—War hysteria, now sweeping the nation's capital, today provoked Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, Montana Liberal, into proposing the United States and Japan consult under the Kellogg-Briand pact to avoid a war which he believes can end only in Communist domination of the world.

Wheeler repeated his warning of Sept. 12, that the United States is on the brink of war with Japan. He added:

"If the United States does go to war, Russia and Communism will be the only victors."

The war hysteria, which has engulfed Congress, has been engendered by high government officials who—publicly or privately—predict war with Japan in the very near future.

NOT KNOX'S VIEW

One of the best informed officials in Washington told International News Service he has every reason to expect war "within two months." Another told a columnist war with Japan would break on Oct. 17, the day after Britain reopens the Burma supply road into China. Asked about the latter forecast, Secretary of the Navy Knox replied:

"I don't concur; I don't think anybody knows."

"I believe we are on the brink of war with Japan today," said Wheeler. "And if we get into war with Japan, it means we are in war in Europe as well as in Asia, because of Japan's alliance with Germany and Italy."

"This war will be a long-drawn-out affair. It will cost the American people untold billions of dollars, in addition to lives. Win, lose or draw, it will mean inflation and then a terrific deflation with a worse debacle than we had in 1929. Misery and starvation will stalk not only Europe and Asia, but the United States as well."

RUSSIA CALMLY WAITS

"And as we slip into this war, we should remember that there is one great Communist country waiting on the sidelines for such an eventuality. Russia and Communism can be the only victors.

"I cannot believe Japan wants war with the United States. If we stop buying her silk and stop selling her cotton and munitions, Japan will be wrecked economically."

MILLION NAMED TO AID DRAFT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (INS)—The draft board today announced the mandatory for registering 16,500,000 men next Wednesday had been virtually completed.

Capt. Gareth N. Brainerd, chief of the board's field section, told a press conference approximately 1,000,000 registrars have been appointed to conduct the huge undertaking.

"All is in readiness for registration of the country's man power for national defense next Wednesday," he said.

SEEK LAWYERS, DOCTORS
Faced with a shortage of Doctors, engineers, lawyers, and other professional men, the army planned to take in a certain proportion of these classes under the draft.

These trained men, while they will not be deferred if their numbers are called, will be allowed to obtain commissions and serve their year in the medical or engineering corps, or in the judge advocate general's department. Previously it was believed such men would receive occupational deferments on the grounds they were "necessary" in civilian jobs.

This development came as both army and selective service officials sped preparations for the great national registration, now only five days off, when for the first time in the country's peace-time history young Americans will sign up for possible military service.

RUSHING SUPPLIES

Draft headquarters issued a warning penalties could be invoked against eligibles who failed to register Wednesday and urged all of the expected 16,500,000 to sign up. With very few exceptions, every man between 21 and 35 must register, officials reiterated, advising anyone who was doubtful to register first and question later.

Meanwhile, both defense and army officials were speeding the pre-current program to have needed supplies and materials ready for the 400,000 men who are to be called up under the draft.

Revere Laundry Has $5000 Fire

An over-heated electric iron was blamed by fire officers for a spectacular two-hour blaze today which destroyed the Revere Laundry plant on St. Mary's St., Revere, near the Milliken Bldg.

It is said that the iron was left on a clothes line, and the fire spread to the building. The fire was extinguished by the Revere fire department.

Malden and Everett are also helped by the blaze which, fed by cleaning fluids and other inflammables, quickly roared through the rambling one and one-half story building.

The fire department fragments of the walls, floors, and partitions and sent them flying through the basement.

John S. Carrozza, of Malden, is the owner of the laundry, according to Revere officials.

Hard of Hearing?

My name is Mrs. Anna Carter, 504 E. 1st St., St. Paul, Minn. I am 65 years old and have been hard of hearing for many years. I have tried many different remedies but have not found any relief. I have been told that I should try the Eustachian tube treatment. I have tried this and it has helped me. I am now able to hear and I am very happy. I am sure that this treatment will help many other people who are hard of hearing. I am sure that this treatment will help many other people who are hard of hearing.

JAP GRAB PLAN STIRS SHANGHAI

SHANGHAI, Oct. 11 (AP)—Despite Japanese denials, well-informed sources insisted tonight 14,000 Chinese soldiers of the Japanese-dominated Nanking government were concentrated outside Shanghai while rumor said Japan plans to take over the International Settlement or the French concession October 18.

The puppet regime's troops were said to have been moved yesterday to new positions between Shanghai and the Woosung forts, at the mouth of the Whangpoo river, 12 miles below the city.

Rumors of impending forceful action against foreign areas in this otherwise Japanese-controlled city was linked with the impending reopening Oct. 17 by Britain of the Burma road.

Japanese authorities sought to stem excited rumors circulating since the United States State Department suggested Tuesday that Americans leave the Orient.

The excitement was accentuated by the assassination early this morning of the Chinese puppet mayor of Japanese-occupied Shanghai, Fu Siao-en, and alleged Japanese attempts to find the cleaver-wielding assassin.

Navy and army spokesmen officially denied the rumor that Japanese forces "are planning to take over the settlement or the French concession by force Oct. 18 after the Burma road reopens."

The army spokesman admitted there might have been some troop movements but declared no troops were "concentrated with the idea of moving against foreign areas."

Also denied were rumors "the Japanese are building concentration camps in which we intend to intern foreigners."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Official concern over the tense Far East situation centered anew today on Shanghai as a potential trouble spot after the slaying there of the city's puppet mayor and a Japanese army officer.

One of the chief dangers, as viewed in well-informed but unofficial quarters, was that the incident might occasion new Japanese attempts to take over the entire International Settlement.

Officials refrained from comment since the assassination of the Mayor Fu Siao-en occurred within the heavily guarded Japanese stronghold of Hongkew and the killing of the officer just outside.

However, it was noted the municipal police of the International Settlement had been asked by Japanese authorities to help search for Fu's personal servant, who was missing from the mayor's residence after the killing.

The servant's home had been in the settlement, at least until three weeks ago. Several times in the past Japanese have charged that lawless characters have taken refuge in parts of the settlement not under Japanese control.

The United States has some 1200 Marines stationed at Shanghai, and has failed so far to reach an agreement with Japan on disposal of the former British International Settlement sector for patrol purposes.

Japan, dissatisfied with the division made by the Shanghai Municipal Council, sought to take over the entire area. The United States, however, has insisted on partitioning an area in which the more important American interests are located.

FALL MOTOR TUNE-UP 50¢

Increases Power and Mileage; Helps Prepare Your Car for Winter

• Here's an important and exclusive Jenney service worth many dollars—yours for only 50¢—the Jenney Solvenized® Treatment.

Solvenized® concentrate is run through your motor. This dissolves gum, the binder of carbon. With the binder gone, built-up carbon is made soft so it can blow away—you'll see clouds of carbon-laden smoke pour out the exhaust of your car.

As the carbon goes, stuck rings and valves are released to seal properly again—compression is improved. You'll hear your motor grow quieter and faster—sure signs that more of the power in the gasoline is being used, less wasted. That means more mileage.

Then drive the car and you'll immediately enjoy more power and mileage, new snap, quicker pick-up. Then keep this new power and economy by using Jenney Solvenized Gasoline and Solvenoil® regularly. Most Jenney stations are equipped to serve you with this exclusive Jenney Solvenized Treatment!

14 Cherbourg Blasted By British Warships

At Magedburg 17 houses were badly damaged and a policeman was killed.

Anticipating the German high command's report on Nazi air force activities during the night, informed sources said 225,000 kilograms (496,000 pounds) of bombs had been dropped on London alone.

Throughout the past six weeks, the same sources said, the British have dropped less than 3600 kilograms (66,000 pounds) of bombs over Berlin.

Berlin spent its third successive alarmless night.

Informed German sources expressed surprise the British should "raise a fuss" over damage done to St. Paul's Cathedral in London by Nazi air raiders.

They admonished them to remember that British warplanes had destroyed churches and hospitals in Germany.

German battleplanes dropped medium and heavy caliber bombs on "numerous war essential objectives" in Liverpool, Birkenhead and Manchester, as well as in London yesterday and last night, the high command asserted.

"Big fires," the communique said, resulted along the banks of the Mersey river, Liverpool's ship-building and dock section.

"In south central England, post facilities, armament factories and important supply depots were successfully raided," it reported, adding that heavily garrisoned airports along the west and south coasts were hit by dive bombers which destroyed hangars.

Several sticks of bombs were dropped across the Wilhelmshaven harbor, frequent target of the RAF, in recent days, the ministry said.

Continuing daily smashing of the "invasion ports" along the channel, RAF bombers thrust far into Germany to blast several airfields in Bavaria, the communique reported.

BRITISH FIGHT OFF RAIDERS

shelter. Barricaded windows were blown in.

A watchman in a one-man "cylinder" shelter was unhurt, although a building was demolished above his refuge.

Scores of persons sleeping in a shelter under a seven-story office building were unhurt although buildings on three sides were wrecked.

The air ministry said five German bombers were shot down yesterday and five British planes were lost. Two of the British pilots were reported safe, however.

(Informed sources in Berlin claimed 10 British planes were shot down yesterday, but gave no figures on German losses.)—Editor's note.

Observers said the night attack was much less severe than previous raids, attributing the change to the accuracy of their anti-aircraft gunners, who were reported to have continued their practice of hitting Nazi flares as fast as the raiders dropped them.

The Press Association said the "Archies" shut down at least two raiders.

Fewer bomb explosions were heard during the night, despite a large number of raiders, leading to a belief that many of the missiles released were time bombs which explode only after a few hours or a few days have elapsed, instead of on contact.

More than 50 districts of London were hit during the all-night attack, and the great west coast port of Liverpool also was the target of many German raiders.

Twenty areas in the provinces from the Thames estuary to the west country, in Wales, the Midlands, and the northeast, also were attacked.

The government reported incendiary bombs caused some fires in London and the suburbs, but added that none of these were extensive and all were brought under control swiftly.

CAIRO, Oct. 11 (INS)—British bombers have carried out heavy raids on the Italian naval base at Tobruk in northeastern Libya during the past 48 hours, the Middle East high command reported today.

During the raids, in which scores of bombs were rained on the harbor, two oil tankers were hit and one was set afire. A direct hit was reportedly scored on a large cargo ship.

Kennedy Lunches With King and Queen

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP)—United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy lunched with King George and Queen Elizabeth in Buckingham Palace today.

Berlin Denies Any Soviet Clash

BERLIN, Oct. 11 (AP)—The authoritative commentary Dienst aus Deutschland asserted today new German-Russian conversations would be held soon at Moscow and took occasion to deny there was any conflict between Soviet interests and the recent pact of Germany, Italy and Japan.

"So far as territorial problems are concerned, it is pointed out in Berlin that the Soviet Union would be able to procure solid political and commercial advantages through new relations to the Reich," the service said.

Dienst aus Deutschland is considered close to the Berlin foreign office.

U. S. Is Seen Rushing Into War Unprepared

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND

Chief Foreign Correspondent for the Hearst Newspapers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—Military and naval circles in Washington are no little concerned with the so much predicted possibility of America's involvement in the war in Europe or in the Pacific or in both simultaneously within the next weeks.

The United States, it is emphasized by those who should know, is as far from being prepared to enter upon an offensive campaign on the other side of the Atlantic and beyond the Pacific on the edge of Asia, as was England when Chamberlain declared war against Germany.

We can, it is true, successfully defend our Atlantic seaboard, the Pacific coast and Hawaii without anxiety. But this will not be a "defensive" war for us if we inject ourselves into the conflict and thereby make it world wide if we cannot win it by staying at home where no combination of powers can seriously touch us on either coast.

FAK FROM READY

If America risks an Anglo-German-Italian war or into conflict with Japan for other than emotional, sentimental and sympathetic reasons, so far not clear, we will have to take the offensive 3500 miles distance in one direction from our Atlantic seaboard and more than 5000 miles from the Pacific coast in another direction.

It is frankly conceded that we are far from being modernly prepared and scientifically equipped for entering upon and conducting such a two-front offensive war.

Our army and air force is not yet recruited, trained, officered, mobilized, equipped. America's industries, vast as they are, cannot yet produce such enormous war materials, warplanes, tanks, artillery, anti-aircraft guns, munitions as now being delivered to England and at the same time equip our own fighting forces. That point may be reached in one year—perhaps.

Coming from war-torn Europe, with its fear-ridden, sleepless red eyes and haggard faces, to whom war is fast becoming an inexpressible anathema, I am appalled at the growing callousness of the American public mind toward the idea of war.

This is not due to any heartlessness, but simply to inability to visualize war as it really is today.

From Portugal through the length and breadth of Europe and Asia to Japan, every country with three small exceptions, is now governed by some form of dictatorship or one-party system.

Even the free China of Chiang Kai-Shek is a one-party dictatorship. The only exceptions are Sweden, Finland, Switzerland. Even Switzerland, the most ideal of republics, is at present an emergency military dictatorship.

STARTLING PATTERN

Is this startling new pattern of Europe and Asia purely an "accident"? Could Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin, Atatürk at Ankara, Chiang Kai-Shek in Chungking, Prince Konoye in Tokyo, Franco in Madrid, Salazar in Lisbon, have achieved this pattern if they had not found waiting forces for the weaving?

Change is ever the foe of the static mind and friend of progress. The convulsions of change may indeed often have much that is evil about them.

In any consideration of the thought or question or question of entering the war in Europe or the Far East or in both, with the idea of deciding the great issue and to re-anchor the British empire as it was, America should keep that picture of Europe and Asia in mind.

ANARCHY POSSIBLE

It does not disappear with the end of Hitler, Mussolini and the defeat of Japan. Indeed, it may then be replaced for a time by a picture of anarchy.

The ruthless, merciless, brutal aerial slugging match between Berlin and London is nearing a peak. It is even now only the foreground of the picture drawn of "total air war" by the late Gen. Douhet, Italian air strategist.

The war in Europe and the Sino-Japanese conflict are approaching an extension. With German troops in Rumania, the Dardanelles and Turkey may soon be involved and the none too large British forces in Egypt and Palestine may conceivably have two fronts to face in their defense of the very strategic Suez Canal.

TRY TO STOP JAPS

In the Far East, Washington and London are seeking to counter Japan's "new order" by strengthening the resistance of free China under Chiang Kai-Shek with money, arms and much needed supplies.

PRESSURE ON MOSCOW

In addition, if talk in Washington may be credited, simultaneous American British efforts are being made in Moscow to get Soviet Russia to give more aid to Chiang Kai-Shek in return for trade concessions.

Moscow doesn't like to be told what Soviet Russia ought to do in its foreign policy.

All this may be regarded by Japan as "provocative."

We are doing almost everything but shooting.

Hospital, with a dozen Boston motorcycle officers having their troubles to keep a path clear, another huge crowd had assembled.

NURSES LINE SIDEWALKS

All the student nurses from this institution were out on the sidewalks in their uniforms. Students from Harvard Medical School mingled with them. Balcenics and windows on the Huntington avenue of the hospital were picked.

By now the procession was slowed to snail's pace. The police finally stepped it up again, but not for long. As Willkie's machine passed Simmons College it was greeted by another crowd of 3000 or more, police estimated.

Here the motorcycle officers had to ride back and forth, pleading with the bystanders to make a path for the three automobiles, three buses and press cars following.

It was a repetition of the numerous, enthusiastic scenes in Commonwealth ave., by the State Hotel, where from 3000 to 4000 persons were waiting. Then "Harvard" and "We Want Willkie" signs rang out for nearly 15 minutes.

Linked by Governor Leveitt Saltonstall and Congressman Joseph W. Martin, GOP national committee chairman, Candidate Willkie, his charming wife and his son, Philip, walked through a hail of madly cheering spectators into the hotel.

There they were guests of the State Republican committee for a luncheon that preceded the invasion of Cambridge, Somerville, Revere and Lynn.

It was at his opening address in New Bedford's Buttonwood Park,

Radcliffe Girls Back Willkie

Wendell L. Willkie is the presidential choice of Radcliffe College undergraduates by a 30-60 margin over Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Radcliffe News announced today.

In a poll conducted by the weekly undergraduate paper, Willkie received 351 votes to 231 for Roosevelt. Over 80 per cent of the undergraduate student body cast votes in the balloting, Rose Yardman, '41, chairman of the poll, announced.

where some 4000 persons gathered to greet him, that Willkie sounded the opening gun in his attack on the administration's tax policies. Here he declared:

"Massachusetts citizens ought to revolt against the high federal taxes."

"One reason why factories are closed in these industrial areas, while new plants are being built in the South, is because the New Deal rate of tax collections in this area has been higher per capita than its expenditures in this territory."

"How you hard-headed people of New Bedford can stand for this sort of discrimination is more than I can understand."

"I'm glad to be talking in this supposedly Democratic stronghold," he explained, "I believe that if we do not prevail this fall, the democratic way of life will pass. In this campaign I have been preaching national unity."

"The policy of the New Deal has been to divide and rule. It has pitted class against class and section against section."

The candidate brought a tour of laughter and a burst of cheering from the crowd as he sinfully added:

"Every suit and every hat I see out there is saturated with taxes."

There were no jeers. The rural toasts as the cavalcade moved out of New Bedford, promptly on schedule, Massachusetts line of march was on fast concrete highways, sharp contrast to the back routes followed in Connecticut and parts of Rhode Island.

But when the three motor cars and buses of the cavalcade moved into Fall River the streets were lined again as they were in New Bedford—three and four and five persons deep.

Willkie was introduced in Fall River to approximately 10,000 persons by Congressman Martin.

Some of the city's juveniles had booted the candidate both en route to the park and in the park itself as he spoke, but the adults appeared to be largely for him.

He opened his speech with a plea for open minds—a plea he frequently makes when his audience is partly hostile, then hammered home his tax argument.

Approaches to the city's civic center were filled by school children on half-holiday.

There was a mixed reception here, as groups, mostly small folk, booted and their elders just gazed. Occasional snowfalls of torn paper showered down from upper portions of buildings.

The parade drew up at South Park, a large sporting green, where perhaps 10,000 swarmed around the amplifier. Willkie's theme was largely the same—question of discrepancy between the federal tax rates and local government disbursements.

LOUD SPEAKER FAILS

"Have you noticed," he said, "that in the last census Washington was the only major American city to show material growth? I'm not interested in increasing the population of Washington. I want to enlarge such cities as Fall River."

Again here, as had happened in Attleboro yesterday, the loud speaker failed and only a garbled version of what Willkie said came piecemeal through the horns until toward the last when it resumed with Willkie's endorsement of "My good friends, Gov. Saltonstall, Henry Parkman and Joe Martin."

Martin drew the loudest cheer. Then again, after a 15-minute sojourn, the caravan hit the road again between crowds which reflected a blend of curiosity, enthusiasm and belligerency. It was warm now, after last night's bitter freeze at Narragansett, and the crowds and camp followers had shed their topcoats.

WELCOME AT TAUNTON

At Taunton another huge crowd greeted the party.

Cong. Martin introduced the candidate. Willkie said:

"I ask and appeal to every American citizen to keep his mind open during this campaign."

"Listen to both sides during the campaign. Don't be swayed by oratory, false promises and passionate language."

"The question is can America come through in this war crisis, if cannot if we stand divided. We must have unity. Our form of government is on the way out if we don't pull together now."

After asking those present not to be prejudicial on account of party affiliations, boss disappeared and Willkie won whole-hearted approval.

The interview he gave reporters, predicting the Ray State victory, was the first Willkie had time to spare in a week.

"I'm going to talk on 'The Failures of the New Deal' in Boston tonight," Willkie told the press.

"I'm going to tell the people that if I were President all their problems would be presented to the people so that they would have a chance to be heard through their representatives in Congress."

"If we should get into another world-wide conflict under the type of administration we have now it would mark the end of civil liberties in this country."

Willkie, refreshed after a few hours' sleep, inspired by the greetings he had received in Democratic headquarters in Rhode Island, was met by the entire Bay State Republican committee at the New Bedford depot where he left him to take to the road.

SPEAKS AT 8 P. M.

While the reception was spectacular along a route that was taking him through New Bedford, Fall River, Taunton, Brockton, Quincy and into Boston, the highlight comes tonight in this alternately curious and enthusiastic city just receiving from the Legion spectacle.

For, at 8 p. m., Willkie will make the major address of his New England tour at Braves Field, home of the Boston Bees.

Practically all the 50,000 rush seat tickets had been distributed and those that remain may be obtained at the gates to the ball park tonight, it was said.

FILE OF FIGHT

The gates will be opened at 6 p. m. and a program of entertainment, including fireworks, vaudeville acts and band music will be presented until the candidate makes his appearance.

They tell a schedule that has called for from six to 10 talks daily. The rugged candidate looks fit and full of fight, and at practically every point he has declared:

"I never felt better in my life."

At Fall River Willkie cited federal expenditures and internal revenue collections to support his contention that the "New Deal" has favored the interests of the country at your expense.

He declared:

"Up here in Massachusetts, last year, the New Deal expenditures amounted to $34 per person. But in the same year, the internal revenue collections in Massachusetts amounted to $37 for every man, woman and child."

"In Alabama, the New Deal spent $34 per capita and it collected in internal revenue taxes $5 per capita. In Arkansas, the New Deal last year spent $40 per capita and the internal revenue collections were less than one-tenth of that."

WILLKIE'S VISIT SPURS R. I. IN VICTORY DRIVE

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 11—Inspired by the reception an estimated 250,000 persons gave Wendell L. Willkie in his tour of this state, Rhode Island's Republican leaders buckled down today to the weeks of hard work that lie ahead if they are to claim victory in November. Willkie gave them fighting words in his arraignment of New Deal policies, predicting that a third term might put the permanently jobless in concentration camps. Speaking from a platform on the Narragansett race track, Willkie told cheering thousands: "If the men who preach this doctrine are given the third term they seek they may succeed in making that theory come true.

"Then, with no one else to work for, the State would be our only master, and the permanently unemployed would be in concentration camps.

"When you vote in November make your vote count that it can't happen here."

"WE WANT WILLKIE"

When he finished the familiar rhythmic chant was taken up by the wildly enthusiastic crowd.

"We want Willkie in the White House!"

Once, briefly, Willkie crossed the Massachusetts line when his procession wound down outside of Pawtucket and went through the formality of exchanging police escorts, governors and their official families. It was there, officially, that federal, gnome-like Joe Martin, the folksy chairman of the G. O. P., climbed into the tonneau of Willkie's car and began his triumphal home-coming to Attleboro.

For, it was as a personal favor to Friend Joe—Willkie's personal choice for the national chairman—that the candidate had made a sudden swerve in his New England tour to visit Martin's constituency.

During his brief stops at New London, Westerly, East Greenwich, Riverpoint and Woonsocket, Willkie gave what amounted to a set speech concerning the futility of expecting a bankrupt administration under a third term New Deal to pay future social security obligations. It was the same theme with variations.

"Do you want this Administration, following this war," he said repetitiously, "to handle the domestic affairs of the United States and take it down the road to inflation; to bankruptcy; to ultimate ruin?"

WOUND CHANGE HORSES

"No man," he said at Riverpoint, where the estate of ex-Gov. Robert Quinn crowns a nearby hill, "loves horses better than I do, but if I'm on the back of one that is sinking in midstream I'm going to get off and swim."

"The New Deal," he told the crowd at Woonsocket, "is no more identified with the Democratic party than the present totalitarian governments of Europe are with the parliamentary system."

To conform with his compact time-table during the day, Willkie contented himself with short, ad lib outbursts of oratory, but his chief d'oeuvre was reserved for the bizarre setting at Narragansett's race plant. It was a reefered and ultered through which filled the great glass ark and overflowed onto the concrete apron where a flag-draped platform had been built—the largest, nocturnal, non-sporting crowd which this big stand has ever held, and one drawn to its windswept flat on one of October's bitterest evenings.

LABOR HIS THEME

Willkie's theme was labor, selected to meet the needs of this industrial community. "Give 'em hell, Wendell," invited some strong-minded male behind the press railing.

Willkie, without topcoat or hat and blinking laryngitis, smiled. He leaped to the attack quickly, putting the Democratic National Committee as scoffing as "Wendell Willkie now promises to end this period of continual industrial depression. He has solemnly pledged to provide a job in private industry for every worker in America."

There was a bite in his voice as he recited, editing the words through his teeth. He lifted a huge forefinger:

"And then," he continued, "it goes on to say—and I am judging the exact words—no man now living, or who ever lived, could fulfill such a promise! If the New Deal statement means anything, it means that the New Dealers believe there is no future for America."

EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, OCT. 11, 1940

THE LEAGUE'S
UNTIMELY END

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee)

A tiny obituary, hardly bigger than a postage stamp, revealed the recent passing of the once mighty Liberty League, which flashed its brilliant way across the newspaper headlines of the 1936 Presidential campaign.

There were no rites and no mourning for the departed. The sign came off the door at League headquarters in Washington, papers and books were neatly packed for the moving van, and the last paychecks were handed around to the few remaining employees.

Press and public paid scant attention to this momentous happening, probably because of the widespread and mistaken belief that the League expired shortly after its unhappy effort to destroy "that man Roosevelt" in the campaign of four years ago. But the League lived on, subdued in spirit, unwanted even by the Republican National Committee, a ghost organization with its once heavy stream of propaganda reduced to a mere trickle.

The death of the Liberty League marked the passing of an era — the end of the idea that corporate wealth in the United States, banded into a unit, possessed of unlimited funds, could control the political destinies of a free people. During the initial stages of its existence, the League was vigorous, powerful and insolent. It preached the doctrine that the protection of wealth was the proper function and chief concern of government, and it did so unashamedly. When the Republicans were afraid to acknowledge openly this main tenet of their political creed—the doctrine stated so eloquently by the founder of their party, Alexander Hamilton—the League stepped out and did so boldly and defiantly.

LEADING THE PACK

For a short period the League flourished to a surprising degree. It was the darling of big business and the Roosevelt haters. The very daring of its attacks on the Chief Executive attracted more and more supporters with bulging checkbooks. Funds flowed in from the du Ponts and dozens of other corporate interests who found business good and plenty of excess cash on hand under the policies of the Administration which they sought to uproot. The League was going big guns, and the Republican National Committee, the normal focal point of the opposition, was dwarfed into insignificance by comparison.

It was the intrepid patriots of the Liberty League who first made the sensational discovery that Roosevelt was a dictator bent on destroying private enterprise and tearing down the traditional forms of American democracy. As early as 1935, the League's director denounced the President as a creature worse than Hitler and his brother tyrants. No charge was too harsh, too unfair, too vitriolic to be hurled at the man in the White House.

The League also pioneered in the slick scheme of combating the Administration's social program by interjecting long and bitter legal battles. Every move undertaken to improve the lot of the workers, the farmers, or the unemployed was contested in the courts. The cry "unconstitutional" sounded forth at every step of the long, hard journey. The highest-priced legal talent in the country was employed to thwart the will of the people, expressed through Congress and the President.

JUDGMENT BY THE PEOPLE

Then came the awakening. The people had enough of leadership by the hearty buckaroos, whose gross mismanagement had brought the direst financial and economic debacle in the nation's history. They rose up to meet this new challenge to their liberty and security. They listened to the high-flown words and saw the iron hand beneath. Months before the voters marched to the polls the League started slipping, and before long it was the most discredited outfit in modern political life. Republicans turned away and shunned it like the plague. The scheme had flopped and the mighty had fallen.

The passing of the Liberty League was a symbol of the changing social viewpoint of the American people. The attempt of a single group of wealthy individuals to stir up hatred and fear of a humanitarian President was rejected, and rightly so, by the mass of the electorate. The flimsy disguise of LIBERTY LEAGUE in capital letters was too transparent to deceive.

The owners of the League probably learned a lesson. They have rushed to the cause of Wendell Willkie with checkbooks flapping in the breeze. But this time there is no fanfare of publicity and no private political party to do the job.

Then, Let's Have A Free Vote!

By CARLISLE BARGERON

(Assigned by Republican National Committee)

In one of those "non-political" speeches of his, Mr. Roosevelt said: "No dictator in history has ever dared to run the gantlet of a really free election."

He is right. And he is NOT RUNNING THE GANTLET OF A REALLY FREE ELECTION IN HIS BID FOR A THIRD TERM.

Will Mr. Roosevelt contend that the 113 electoral votes of the Solid South which presumably are his at the start, come from REALLY FREE voters? These people are enslaved to something which happened 75 years ago. To deal with this, their general elections are but mere formalities. Their REALLY FREE vote is in the primaries when they have a choice of who the various DEMOCRATIC candidates will be. No REALLY FREE choice will be reflected in this Presidential campaign.

AND, will Mr. Roosevelt contend that the minions of Boss Flynn, of Boss Hague, of Boss Kelly, of Boss Nash, of Boss Crump, of Boss Guffey are REALLY FREE voters?

Mr. Roosevelt knows that in a REALLY FREE vote in this country he would have no more chance in November than a celluloid-legged dog chasing an asbestos cat through hell.

In that great "free" land of Jersey City, Boss Hague won't let his subjects have voting machines. Forty thousand persons are too illiterate to use them, he explains. Yet these 40,000 persons herded into the polls may decide the destiny of this country. A New Deal controlled Senate Campaign Investigating Committee refuses to investigate vote frauds and corruption in Jersey until it will be too late to be effective in this election. A City Clerk with an arrogance that could only be exercised under a Boss, destroys the poll books for the elections of 1936 and 1937, to keep a Legislative Committee from looking into them.

Would Mr. Roosevelt contend this is REALLY FREE voting?

Every reference to the outcome in Illinois turns on the question of whether Bosses Kelly and Nash may push enough cattle, dead and alive, through the turnstiles to overcome the State's REALLY FREE VOTE.

Hitler came into power in 1933 on a REALLY FREE vote. The people of Germany wanted him. Then he got his Kellys, Hagues, Guffeys, Flynnas et al, to work, and it WAS NOT A REALLY FREE VOTE when he became der Fuehrer in 1934. Mr. Roosevelt's crowd hasn't moved as fast. Remove one single one of these Bosses from under Mr. Roosevelt and watch the election odds!

But we don't want you to think there is naught but squalor in a Boss' heart. A story which threw that great FREE convention at Chicago into hearty laughter, concerned Humanitarian Hague's meeting with Fellow Humanitarian Maury Maverick, Mayor of San Antonio, Texas.

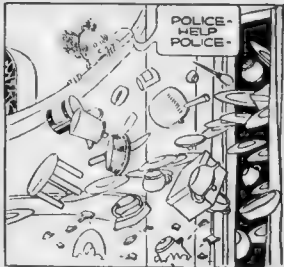

"Well, well, Frank," said Humanitarian Maury by way of greeting. "You wouldn't let me speak in your town once, but I've become a mayor myself now and I know the problems we mayors have."

"I'll bet you do," replied Humanitarian Hague warmly. "Now, Maury, let me tell you how to build up your organization..."

"Wait a minute," interrupted Humanitarian Maury. "I want to say you've got an able worker in Congress in Mary Norton. I worked with her."

"Don'tcha think I don't know it, Maury," rejoined Humanitarian Hague. "And you know something, Maury, I ain't never taken no single dime off'n her. Let me tell you, Maury—in building up your organization, don't you never take no dime off'n no woman—I don't care who she is."

There is a nobility of heart here that you wouldn't associate with a BOSS.

Market Prices Hold Steady; Beef Down

There were few changes in prices in the Boston market this week, although a slight reduction was reported in choice steer cuts.

In the poultry line, native ducks were 25 cents a pound, native fowl were selling at 30 and native broilers at the slightly higher price of 32 cents a pound. Turkeys were quoted at 38 cents a pound.

There were a few slight changes in the meat prices this week. Heavy steer beef top of the round was quoted at 50 cents a pound, which is a slight reduction from last week. Bottom of the round was selling for 40 cents a pound and porterhouse steak was quoted at 70 cents, which is also a few cents less than what was asked the previous week. Rib lamb chops were 50 cents and kidney lamb chops were priced at 60 cents.

ROAST PORK 25 CENTS

Roast pork was selling for 25 cents by the strip and sausages ranged from 35 to 40 cents a pound. Forequarters of lamb for stewing were priced at 16 cents a pound, legs of lamb were listed at 32 cents and leg and loin of lamb was also quoted at the same price of 32 cents a pound. Fresh calves' liver, which was 80 cents last week, was selling at 65 cents this week.

Whole hams, brisket of corned beef and middle ribs of corned beef remained about the same in price as the preceding week.

Whole hams sell for 23 cents, brisket is listed at 30 to 35 cents a pound, and middle ribs of corned beef at 25 cents the pound.

Roast tub butter was selling for 42 cents a pound and the best print butter for 45 cents. Fresh butter was listed at 50 cents a pound. Best eggs were quoted at 50 cents a dozen and the medium eggs were selling for 40 cents.

PLENTY OF SWEET

RE AMERICAN

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE are being treated at the present time by President Roosevelt and his advisers precisely as the peoples of Russia, Germany, Italy and Japan are being treated by their Totalitarian rulers.

That treatment consists of SILENCE, SECRECY and the rejection of CONSTITUTIONAL FORMS.

We are on the verge of war.

But the people are not told WHY.

Vast secret diplomatic movements are taking place in Washington that concern the very lives of every man, woman and child of the United States.

There are behind-the-scenes "understandings" with foreign powers.

But Congress and the people are being treated just as if a blanket dictatorship had already arrived.

Of this general Rooseveltian policy of silence, Wendell L. Willkie has had this to say:

"And all this while—all this anxious while—the man whom the New Deal party has nominated, the man whose trademark is on this depression, the man whose foreign policies helped to disrupt the democratic world—that man is silent!"

"He will not discuss the issues that trouble people. He will not tell them the truth about their problems. He has placed himself above them."

"He says: Trust me. I can't explain it all to you. You wouldn't understand. Perhaps 10 years from now the archives will explain, but for the present you must trust me. You must believe that I am indispensable."

Congress, in the gravest hour in the history of the Republic, has ceased to function constitutionally.

It is not asked whether it wants war or peace.

The people, the ultimate power in our democracy, are treated and shushed away from official doors in Washington—doors behind which we are being sold down the river to war and economic slavery.

We are told to goosestep and shut up.

Congress is told to attend strictly to its business of squandering and taxing.

No explanation of our warlike moves in the East or toward Europe is ever given us.

All we hear is the "LET IT BE DONE!"

Through meddling and muddling we have been jockeyed into a position that may destroy the Republic.

And this has been brought about by SILENCE, CONTEMPT OF CONGRESS AND ITS RIGHTS and the growing belief of a President in his own INFALLIBILITY AND INDISPENSABILITY.

The people and their representatives have been put in the doghouse, and the hounds of war, unleashed, are in full cry.

Can, then, any sane man doubt that the re-election of President Roosevelt means WAR?

MARRIED PEOPLE are the happier people, despite the contradictory arguments of cynics and confirmed bachelors.

Authority for this observation is Dr. Paul Popenoe, general director of the Institute of Family Relations.

Extensive investigation convinces Dr. Popenoe that there are fewer cases of insanity, suicide and imprisonment among wedded couples than among their single brothers and sisters.

This will interest various officials and citizens who have opposed the employment of married women by government and private industry.

It will also interest thousands of young men who have postponed matrimony due to fear that it might bring them disillusionment.

However, we think it would be a serious mistake to infer that all married people are happy and that all single people are dissatisfied with themselves and others.

We have met some very pleasant bachelors and some equally pleasant spinsters.

AUTUMN BABIES have better bones on the average than babies born in other seasons of the year.

Such is the conclusion of distinguished scientists working in co-operation with Pennsylvania State College.

They do not attribute the infants' superiority to the magic of Fall weather.

They prefer to believe it is the result of the varied foods and increased sunshine expectant mothers enjoy in Summer.

Perhaps the learned gentlemen are right.

Perhaps a person born between September and December is more fortunate than other persons whose birthdays occur in mid-Winter and Spring.

But we cannot overlook the evidence that twenty-two American Presidents, including George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln, were Winter babies.

If they were handicapped at the start, most of them apparently overcame it later on.

And that goes for the rest of all people.

On The Side

TEDDY KENYON is the celebrated ladybird. She has been flying planes for 11 years. I think she should change her name to Teddina. This taking of men's names by women must be curbed . . . Phil Hegan, once a Brooklyn cop, is now a singing film star. He is the father of five children, being, therefore, one up on Bing Crosby. Phil is to play the part of Chauncey Olcott in a picture based on that famous actor's career. Suppose we may expect to hear Mr. Regan sing "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "My Wild Irish Rose," "Mother Machree" and "Kathleen Mavourneen"—all Olcott hits.

JUST TO ENCOURAGE the young fellows who will have to join the Army, why don't the business men of America get together and announce in a series of advertisements "Men Who Join the Army! Your Job Will Be Waiting for You!" Individual firms might also announce: "Our Future Employment Policy Will Be: Men with Military Experience Preferred. Your Honorable Discharge Will Be Your Recommendation." . . . In the Hollywood film colony there is a woman who has a preparation which it is said will grow hair on any man's head, no matter how bald. But the hair grown, no matter what color hair the man originally had, will always be blonde. And I am told the number of men who would rather remain bald than have blonde hair is astonishing. . . . Why the Williams steadfastly claims in a magazine article that Hitler is married to Eva Braun, a 28-year-old Bavarian blonde. Seems we just can't keep the blondes out of this column.

"LISTEN, you dope," writes a San Francisco admirer, "you speak of corn beef. It is corned beef, stupid!" . . . Am asked who was the last Major League ball player to wear a mustache. It was either "Eagle Eye" Jake Beckley of Cincinnati. Or John Titus of Philadelphia. . . . Puccini's "Girl of the Golden West" is to be presented in English by the San Francisco Opera. Gaeta Merola, director of this fine opera company, is a good friend of mine, but I still say anybody who presents in English an opera originally written in Italian should be arrested.

The English lyrics will not fit the score properly.

"HEY, YOU, stop stirring up the battle of the sexes," writes a young matron of Chicago. "I nearly had to slap my husband's face this morning after an argument inspired by one of your inflammatory remarks" . . . The highly successful clothing merchant, Leo Perper, says "success hinges on ability to popularize what you have—provided you have something" . . . A young woman of Manhattan writes in part: "My husband, who everybody said was marrying me to escape military service, has enlisted. I am proud to be able to say I am a soldier's wife. Our children, if any, will also be proud to say they are a soldier's children."

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Oct. 11—Wednesday morning I attended a meeting of the United States Committee for the Care of European Children. Since there are about a thousand children in this country, it will be necessary to retain a skeleton organization to keep in touch with them, and a certain amount of money will still have to be raised for this purpose.

Though no more children are to be sent over at present by Great Britain, there is a possibility that in one way or another during the next few months, that children from other countries may land on these shores. If they need care, the committee must be prepared to look after them.

I feel that we must be able to expand later on if the call should come to care for children from other countries. This care must cover short periods of time, or in the case of orphan children, who come in under the quota, we may have to find permanent homes to provide care during the years of their minority.

I HAD a delightful lunch Wednesday as the guest of Mr. Morris Ernst. Then I talked a few minutes with Mr. Daniel Tobin and some of the people working with him in the labor division of the Democratic National Committee Campaign Headquarters.

By 2:45 Miss Thompson and I started to drive back to the country. The colors are changing and are not quite as brilliant, but in some places a whole hillside seems to be even more beautiful with pastel shades predominating.

Back at the cottage a cheery fire was burning in my sitting room and the tea table was standing in front of it. A little after 5:30, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lent and their small boy, Jimmy, came to see me. Young Jimmy Lent is four years old and the first thing he asked on entering the house was: "Where is the radio?"

He spent his time exploring every room and making friends with my maids, but was distressed to find that we had no small boy to play with him.

Mrs. George Huntington came to dinner and Mr. Alan Lomas came up from New York City bringing his guitar. We spent a delightful evening listening to folk songs of various kinds and talking over the question which concern us all so deeply. Mr. Lomas is anxious that the storehouse of American culture, which he has helped to build up in the Congressional Library, should be of some value to the youth of the nation during its year of compulsory service.

I hope Mr. Archibald MacLeish, Librarian of Congress, will find some way to make the life of America, as recorded in our folk songs, a part of the knowledge of all young Americans, for this year of service should be more than a period of military training.

"IT'S TOO LATE NOW," SAYS SAROYAN

By Leonard Lyons

William Saroyan

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—William Saroyan, who wrote his Pulitzer Prize play in less than one week is improving upon that speed record. He now is working upon four new plays and hopes to complete them within two weeks. . . . Monday night he went to the Stork Club, where he told this to Lillian Hellman. "But my work probably will be interrupted," he stated. "My work conscripted into the Army." "Then why don't you get married and raise a family?" Miss Hellman asked. "It's too late now," he replied. "There isn't enough time." . . . "There is," said Miss Hellman. "For Saroyan."

DEMOCRACY: A faultlessly attired man, escorting a statuesque girl, arrived at Fritz's Monte Carlo. On his way out he passed a table at which sat Henri-Haye, the new French Ambassador; Tommy Shevlin, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and Mrs. Harrison Williams. They were discussing democracy. The man left his statuesque girl, and placing his hand upon the Ambassador's table, put his other hand into his pocket and challenged the group: "I'll bet Roosevelt wins. Name your odds." . . . His challenge wasn't accepted, and so he left them to continue their discussion. They hadn't recognized the fact that this was democracy at work. For the man was Fred Chiavante, who worked at La Conga, the French Casino and the Hurricane as a head waiter.

CHATTER: Congress will pass legislation attaching the frozen funds of the Bank of France, Bank of Belgium, etc.—the bank funds, not the individual deposits—and apply them against the war debts due us. . . . Vincent Sheehan expects to return to London after his lecture tour. . . . Tommy Lyman's touching ballads now may be heard at Cafe D'Oree on E. 49th St. . . . Tilly Losch now is doing portraits of all his friends, for a one-woman exhibit to be announced shortly. . . . Bobby Byrnes, who aspired for ten years to bring his orchestra into the Strand, finally made it. But Tuesday he was stricken. Gene Krupa and Abe Lyman will substitute until he recovers.

TRIUMPH: Lela Rogers, mother of Ginger Rogers, completed a three-year job last week when she sold to the Canadian government a new type of stove heater invented by her 73-year-old father. . . . The Canadian government agreed to purchase them, if arrangements could be made to manufacture them in the U. S. A., because all the available Canadian factories now are busy with armaments. . . . Mrs. Rogers reported this glad news to her father. "And now I'm worried," she confessed Tuesday night. "because he wrote me that he was so overjoyed by the news that he danced around and broke his piano." . . . "That's nothing to worry about," she was assured. "He'll make a lot of money and has a right to break his piano." . . . "That's not what I'm worried about," Mrs. Rogers continued. "You see—he has no piano."

SIZE: Joe Frisco, who always has been accustomed to visiting and working in the small, smelly rooms which are called cafes, made his first visit to Earl Carroll's night club in Hollywood. . . . Carroll's place occupies ten acres of ground. Frisco made a thorough tour of inspection and then said: "Well, this is my first v-v-visit to Y-y-yellowstone Park."

MUSIC: When the ILGWU presented its pageant at Madison Square Garden last week, all the participants—except one—were garment workers employed in the shops there. The one man who is not an employee but an employer plays fifth fiddle in the union's orchestra. . . . "Until the Employers Ass'n gets its own orchestra," that man explained, "I'll play with the employees' band." . . . When David Dubinsky, head of the ILGWU, asked that employer how he liked playing fifth fiddle he replied: "It's no different. After all, I play fifth fiddle in my shop, too."

ENTERPRISE: Ferenc Molnar and his agent, Dr. Pauker, dined with Michael Todd, who is producing Molnar's new show. During the dinner, the agent's daughter arrived wearing a cowhide jacket. . . . "That hide is very pretty," Todd stated, admiringly. . . . "Look at it closely," the agent-conscious Molnar sighed. "You'll find it's from my skin."

TILLY LOSCH

EXCLUSIVE: When the tremendous contract for construction of barracks and other buildings at Camp Edwards, in Bourne, went to a New York firm (of low derivation), the gleam was in fact at Boston's famous Engineers Club. . . . The members can perk up. . . . The Camp Devens job, also a wrapper, has been won by two Boston contractors.

THE WINTER STOVE LEAGUE had action aplenty with claims and denials of the sale of the Boston Bees to a group featured by Larry McPherson's alleged presence in its midst. . . . Ever more startling, in this column's opinion, is the affirmative statement by Ken Smith, of the New York Daily Mirror, that Bing Crosby, acting through George Raft as his agent, is trying to buy the Bees.

WRITER SMITH SAYS THAT "Judge Landis might frown because Bing owns some race horses" . . . But Ken goes on to say that "Bing is a real sportsman and would be a good man in the National League." . . . We tried to check the story in New York after hearing Charles F. Adams disclaim any news of the attempt at purchase by Bing. . . . (Mr. Adams said that four or five fellows were trying to buy the Bees, and had been for several months. We implied from Mr. Adams' jocularity that more conversation than money had been involved to date.)

OUR NEW YORK OBJECTIVE was the sleek Mr. Raft. . . . His rooms at the Sherry-Netherlands weren't answering in the afternoon, and at "The Hurricane," the night club in which George holds a 50 per cent interest, it was learned that the Patent-Leather Kid had joined a welcoming party to Frances Langford and her husband, Jon Hall. . . . The two arrived from Hollywood to rehearse in the next "Hurricane" show.

THE RAFT SUITE finally afforded a connection as the sun was going down, but a lad who identified himself as "Mr. Raft's personal secretary" did the answering. . . . The confidential man in the Raft entourage in the past has been the slim, dapper Mack "Killer" Grey. . . . But it wasn't "Killer" answering. . . . This chap said his name was Ben Something, Jr. . . . George said his "personal secretary" in a very non-secretarial voice, was out.

SO OUR MESSAGE WAS REPEATED—name, paper, what-about-Crosby-and-the-Bees and all the rest. . . . Mr. Raft, of course, was in the room. . . . At one juncture, when he was repeating the name, the "personal secretary" paused for a moment. . . . It seemed that he was about to relent and affix the master to the other end of the wire. . . . But, no. . . . Having started out by being "out," the erstwhile sociable, accommodating and easy-to-reach Mr. Raft thought it best apparently, to remain "out."

FAST on the heels of all this—like a Crosby horse in pursuit of his field—came a telegram from a very close friend of Mr. Crosby's, Walter O'Keefe.

WE GET SPORADIC TELEGRAMS from Mr. O'Keefe, and have been getting them at the rate of one or two a year since Walter, Bing, Bobby Dolan and yours morosely (at the recollection) wallowed through

REHEARSAL FOR CLUB SHOW
Jon Hall (Frances Langford) Back in New York

Depression 1 together in dear old Beverly Hills. . . . Could it be, perhaps, that Mr. O'Keefe, and not Mr. Raft, was the authorized agent of Mr. Crosby in the Bees' deal?

BUT THE O'KEEFE INCIDENT turned out more mysteriously than the sudden decision of Mr. Raft to be "out" for the day—until seven o'clock. . . . The O'Keefe message was fairly frantic. . . . It called for a 10:30 appointment at a midtown hotel. . . . He hadn't checked in six hours later. So the lowdown on Bing and the Bees will have to wait. . . . Mr. O'Keefe should know. . . . And rich and talented, Walter as yet has no "personal secretary" not to confide in.

'MRS. MINIVER' ROLE TO GREER

By Louella O. Parsons

Greer Garson

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11 "Mrs. Miniver" by Jan Struther, easily the current best seller, was sold today to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for a sum whispered as tops paid for a novel. . . . Don't say I said so but I understand $30,000 is the price Mrs. Struther received. The story is that of an English family living in the present days and it's so perfect for Greer Garson that it is not in the least surprising that she will be starred in it as soon as she finishes "Blossoms in the Dust." Last so that the English atmosphere will be correct and the novel made into a worthy screen play, James Hilton and R. C. Sheriff, well-known British writers, have been engaged to write the script. . . . Although "Mrs. Miniver" is nothing like "Goodbye Mr. Chips" M-G-M have high hopes that it will rank in interest with the latter. . . . Don't movie. Mrs. Struther seems like an old friend after hearing her quick answers on "Information, Please."

THE TWO LADS who wrote "They Drive by Night"—Meyer Levin and A. J. Bezzerides—are home all right for themselves. . . . They say "Power House" to Paramount for $10,000. . . . The three stars tried to buy it. Just as interesting as the success of the two writers is the word that Brian Donlevy has become one of the most popular actors of the year in "The Great McGinty" will have a role with Dorothy Lamour as less as the heroine. Isn't that a combination—Dorothy and Donlevy? Pretty good, for my money. How about you, dear readers? The story is a good, robust yarn in which a tough power line figures.

MYRNA LOY IF EGGY BURNS, the beautiful Irish Girl, becomes one of the big stars on the screen (and I'm betting she will) I'll always say I saw her first. She was so lovely the first night I saw her at the Stork Club that I felt she would be star material. . . . Walter Winchell and Dick Walts and several other critics were in the Stork Club at the same time and they, too, were attracted by her beauty. . . . It was good news today to hear that Eggie, who is now in New York visiting her parents, will be handled her test role when she returns. . . . She goes into the second female lead with Errol Flynn and Olivia De Havilland in "Footsteps in the Dark" with Lloyd Bacon directing. Watch for her. I think she is a real star bet.

MYRNA LOY and Bill Powell may be without their third musketeer when the new "Shadow of the Thin Man" gets under way Nov. 19. W. S. Van Dyke, who has megaphoned all the popular "Thin Man" mystery comedies, is under mobilization orders and may be called to join his battalion around the time the picture is ready to start. For Weedy is a major in the reserves.

SNATSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Ann Sothern's sister, Bonnie Lake, eloped today to Reno with Jack Jennie, member of Artie Shaw's band; keep your eye on the Lana Turner-Tony Martin romance. It is really serious. He gave her a diamond wrist watch last night, after returning from his Cincinnati trip; Phil Harris and Marie Foye (the things over at the Torch Club); Gene Tierney draped in Terry Hunt's orchids, with Terry in a ringside table at Salsp's Moulin.

JAMES ROOSEVELT and Lloyd Bacon luncheon tele-ate and talking over "Pot O' Gold." I was luncheon with attractive Brenda Joyce and introduced her to Jimmie, Lloyd and Mottley Lewney; the mysterious red-head with Bob Tristram is Kay Feltus with her hair dyed; The Weissmullers are in town—lady and all—and is Johnny proud? Florence Lawrence, drama editor of the Los Angeles Examiner, has issued invitations to a breakfast honoring Edward Everett Horton a week from Sunday. Eddie's breakfasts at his home are famous and he's having another one this Sunday; the Hal Roaches are giving a big party for Atwater Kent on Saturday. He has leased Marion Davies' Benedict Canyon home; Dana Dale, who will become the bride of Jeffrey Lynn, caught Kay Stewart's bridal bouquet at the Stewart-Langdon Trooper wedding in Pasadena Wednesday night; Sidney Fox and Charles Beahan have called the whole thing off after seven and one half years of married life. She'll resume her picture career.

28 Love
And Marriage
Young Wife's Problem

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 22 years of age. A year ago I married and was so happy, and now I'm living apart from my husband. He is 23 years old. I am expecting a blessed event in a month or two.

In the past three months my husband started running around by himself, and didn't provide the necessary food for me as he always had his meals with friends with whom he happened to be. I told him if he wasn't going to stay home at all and provide the necessities of life I might as well leave. And he said to go ahead. So here I am back with my family.

My friends think I ought to get him to be with me when the baby comes, as the baby will need him. Others say if I go through this ordeal alone I will never want him to come back. I still love him dearly, and if he really wants to come back it would be hard for me to refuse.

My folks have helped me so that I have all the baby's things together, as my husband hasn't much money. Please give me your advice.
UNHAPPY WIFE.

By all means, try to have your husband with you when the baby is born. Perhaps that may awaken in him some sense of responsibility, so that he will stop behaving like a school-boy, now that he has assumed the obligations of a married man. Also, try to be cheerful as possible during these last days, so that you will have a normal and happy baby. Here's hoping for the best.

Why Not Send Her
A Box of Candy?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am very much in love with a girl who was in my graduating class last June. However, she doesn't know about it because we weren't very well acquainted. Not knowing her intimately, and as our homes are quite a distance apart, I hesitate to call on her without an invitation.

Do you think there would be any harm in sending her a card, preferably one with a picture of our school on it, asking her if she remembers?

No harm at all. In fact, I think it would be a good plan. But why stop at a picture card—why not send along a box of candy, too? It would be an ideal way to renew your acquaintance.

You Can Be Beautiful

'Sub Tint' Foundation Adds to Your Make-Up

By ARLINE GOULD

A MAKE-UP base misses out on its purpose in life if it doesn't give your complexion added brilliance and depth, through the cosmetics that you use with it . . . if you don't notice a definite change, as compared with your complexion powdered but innocent of a base, then it's not doing for you what a good base really should!

There's a brand new one . . . a "sub-tint" which is meant to help you make the most of your pet cosmetics . . . not to do the honors by itself.

It's an unusual cream which comes from a house that has a reputation for putting to work the latest scientific tricks in perfecting anything from a face powder to a lip rouge. And now they give you "sub tint!"

Though it comes in different skin shades, to blend with your make-up . . . to heighten the effect of a translucent fairness, or a sun-touched bronzy look . . . which you may want to keep though beaches and strong sunshine are completely out of your life now . . . it doesn't change the skin tint to an appreciable degree.

It does, however, provide a soft, clinging base with a suggestion of tint to help the make-up follow through . . . the effect is a softly most beautifully tinted perfection . . . an essential to an elegant, groomed look.

It's brand new . . . it comes in a gleaming white jar with a pretty, pale blue cap . . . it's perfumed exquisitely . . . and it may very well be the answer to your particular make-up foundation problem!

If you would like to learn all about this new "sub tint" foundation for make-up, phone Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Smart Set Fashions

THERE'S NEW imagination at work to help cut all you troubled young men, who consider ordering flowers, the right kind for the right occasion or frock . . . and it's all done by "wire." You may wire a fetching head-piece of camellias . . . or such tricks for the football season as a baton of flowers, or chrysanthemums in "three pieces" . . . like these, photographed. It's perfect if she wears a pompadour. Daisy chrysanthemums are combined with croton leaves and may be pinned on the hair and on the sleeves. Or just one for the sleeve, if you prefer. — ANNICE BRINK.

CHATEAU SAUCE

1/2 lb. Chateau cheese
2 tsp. butter
1 1/2 tsp. flour
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1/4 tsp. paprika
1 1/2 cups milk
Cut Chateau in small pieces. Melt butter in top of double boiler. Add flour, salt, pepper and paprika. Blend thoroughly. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly until mixture is thick. Continue to cook ten minutes in double boiler, stirring occasionally. Add cheese and beat with an egg beater until the cheese is entirely melted. Serve immediately. Makes two cups of cheese sauce.

Left-Over Bread, Roast Come in Handy

BY MARTHA LEE

With an unlimited supply of grocery products at her disposal, anyone can be a good cook. But the homemaker who sees the possibilities of bread crumbs or the last of a roast deserves—and wins—praise, for she is truly a great cook and an artist.

Imagination and ingenuity can conjure up an extra-delicious dish out of a loaf of unsliced bread and a pound of ground beef. The loaf is cut into a "boat," brushed with melted butter, and toasted until golden brown. The left-over crumbs are mixed with meat and seasoning to make the tasty, nutritious filling for the bread case.

BEEF CRUMBLE IN BREAD CASE

1 loaf unsliced bread
1 lb. ground beef
1 medium sized onion
Salt and pepper
2 tsp. fat
To make bread case, trim crusts from loaf of bread. Remove center, leaving walls and bottom about 1/2 inch thick. Brush with melted butter and brown in moderate oven (375 deg. F.).

FILLING FOR BREAD CASE

Melt the fat in frying pan, add finely chopped onion and brown. Crumble the bread removed from the center of the loaf. Mix with meat and add to onions in pan. Add salt and pepper. Brown. When cooked, pile lightly into bread case and serve hot. Accompany with gravy or tomato sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Using inexpensive, staple food, like flour, to "extend" the flavor of more expensive food helps pennies pull their weight in meal planning. Nobody denies the charm of hot biscuits. Biscuit dough has even more charm when wrapped, jelly-roll fashion, around flakes of corned beef or other cooked ground meat. Thus, flour, baking powder, shortening, and milk change left-over meat into a main dish that makes for meal enjoyment.

CORNEBEEF ROLL

2 cups sifted flour
1/2 tsp. salt
3 tsp. baking powder
2 to 4 tbsp. shortening
2 3/4 to 3 1/2 cup milk

2 cups corned beef or cooked ground meat

Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Cut or rub in shortening. Add milk to make a soft dough, stirring just enough to make ingredients hold together. Turn out on lightly floured board, knead gently for a half minute. Roll into a rectangular sheet 1/4 inch thick. Shred meat with a fork. Spread on biscuit dough. Roll jelly-roll fashion and seal edge. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in moderately hot oven (425 deg. F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Slice and serve hot with chili sauce, horseradish sauce or gravy. Makes about 12 one-inch slices.

Here's something really different—and delicious. Both simple to prepare and economical. This Cottage Cheese Loaf makes a delightful main luncheon dish and will serve the whole family. The suggestions which have been worked out here can be varied with other ingredients to suit your taste.

COTTAGE CHEESE LOAF

1 loaf bread
2 eggs
1/2 tsp. salt
3/4 cup condensed tomato soup
2 tbsp. melted butter
2 cups cottage cheese
1/2 cup soft butter
1/2 cup chopped stuffed olives

Trim the crust from the loaf of bread and cut a slice about 1/2 inch thick from the top to make a cover. Scoop out the crumbs from the inside, leaving 1/2 to 1 inch on the sides and bottom. Beat the eggs slightly and add two cups of the bread crumbs (scooped from the inside of loaf), the salt, tomato soup, melted butter, cottage cheese and olives. Fill the hollowed-out loaf with the mixture and cover with the top. Spread the top and sides with the soft butter. Bake in a hot oven (400 deg. F.) for about 30 minutes. Makes six to eight servings.

Manners

Little Family Difficulty

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

The bride is planning to have a church wedding, and she is to wear a white satin dress and bridal veil.
She will have only one attendant, a maid of honor. Her father refuses to give her in marriage. She has a young brother and an uncle wondering if it is correct for either of these to give her in marriage?

GRACE.

Yes, if the bride's brother isn't too young, she should consult about this with a minister who is to perform the ceremony. If a maid is asked to have him give the bride in marriage. Otherwise, she could correctly have her uncle present her in marriage.

If she wishes and especially if she thinks that this would avoid any family complications, she might have her young brother or her uncle walk up the aisle with her, and then have her mother give her in marriage. This means that, at the proper time in the ceremony, a further step from the place of the last row on the left of the aisle and pass her in marriage.

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

Will you kindly let me know if a girl should be worn by the mother of the bride at a church wedding?

If the church wedding is in the morning, the mother of the bride, and all the women who attend the wedding, should wear a hat.
If the church wedding is in the evening, she is formal, whether or not the mother wears a hat or some other covering for her head depends on the regulations of the denomination.

St. Elizabeth Fete Planned

At the quarterly meeting of the Guild of St. Elizabeth, held at the Hotel Vendome, with Mrs. John C. O'Neil, president, presiding, Mrs. Charles E. Donovan reported an enthusiastic response for the Guild supper dance to be held at Hotel Somerset on April 16.

Substantial initial returns were reported on the "Mile of Pennies" being collected by Guild members and friends.

Miss Maude Rockwell, Mrs. Federico Crosby, Miss Dorothy Carnoy, Mrs. B. J. Baldwin, Miss Alice Folley will serve as a nominating committee to report on candidates at the January annual meeting.

CHRISTINE WOOLLETT VISITS MOUNTAINS

The autumn foliage which travelers report, is more beautiful than ever this year, has attracted many visitors to the White Mountains.

Miss Christine Wollett of Heccon Hill is enjoying the bracing October weather and beautiful scenery at Intervale, where she is spending several weeks visiting Mrs. John Oliver at Sunny Acres.

Mrs. Charles Walcott of Sparks street, Cambridge, has accepted the chairmanship of the Women's division of the Salvation Army Cambridge annual maintenance appeal, which was launched this week.

NORTH SHORE FOLK VISITING NEW YORK

Mrs. Albert C. Burrage of Ipswich and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Harold Chalifoux of Beverly, are spending a few days at the Ritz Carlton in New York. Mrs. Burrage's daughter, Nancy, will be married on Nov. 9 to William Chase. Mrs. Chalifoux's daughter, Elizabeth, was married recently at a fashionable wedding in Beverly to Harry Engman Draper.

GENTLES BAKING COMPANY

Copyright, 1940, by Harry M. Fowl Co. Inc.

By BETTY ALDEN

IT'S A HUNDRED to one that the ushers will be nibbling the bridesmaids' headresses at the wedding of Olivia Peters and H. Lawrence Pool in Milton this afternoon . . .

The girls are wearing wreaths of tasty fresh green grapes in keeping with the autumn tones of their costumes, and the boys probably won't be able to resist the opportunity of sampling them . . .

Olivia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Dudley Peters of Milton, is "changing the name but not the letter" in Milton's First Parish Church . . . She is wearing her mother's beautiful ivory satin gown made on Medieval lines with an heirloom veil of Pointe de Venise lace caught with clusters of orange blossoms . . . Her bouquet is of alba lilies and white delphinium . . .

Sisters in Bridal Party

THE BRIDE'S sister Ruth, as maid of honor, heads a bevy of picturesquely gowned attendants . . . Another sister, Priscilla, is a bridesmaid together with Letitia Howe, Helena Edgell, Fanny Lyon, Jean Richmond and Phoebe Stilman . . .

Their taffeta gowns have gold bodices with full skirts shading from gold to rust and deep copper . . . Bouquets of gold and rus: chrysanthemums and the headresses of grapes tied with rust velvet streamers complete their unusual outfits . . .

The reception is at the Milton Club, where Mrs. Peters is receiving in a gown of soft green with brown accessories . . . The bridegroom's uncle, Dr. Eugene Pool, and his aunt, Mrs. J. Lawrence Pool of New York, have come on for the wedding . . .

W. Henry Pool of Warrenton, Va., father of the bridegroom, is the best man . . . The usher staff includes a number of Harvard '39 classmates of the bridegroom—William B. Emmons, Jr., Henry G. Thorndike, Benjamin D. Hyde, Walter I. Badger, 3d, Whitney Wright, Samuel Morris, John N. Steele and Charles C. Beaman . . .

The bride, a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club, made her debut in the season of 1936-37 following her graduation from Winsor School . . . Mr. Pool prepared for Harvard at St. Paul's and belongs to Phoenix S. K., and Hasty Pudding-Institute of 1770 . . .

Drury-Fiske

KITTY FISKE of Warren, R. I., Niece of Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner H. Fiske of Boston, is being married tomorrow to Maynard Kane Drury, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Drury of Fifth ave., New York, at a fashionable wedding in Providence.

The charming bride-elect, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Augustus Fiske, has a distinguished New England ancestry and was presented to Boston society at parties given by Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner Fiske and Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Hollingsworth . . .

This evening the bridegroom's parents are entertaining the couple at a dinner dance at the Providence Biltmore . . . Bachelors attending the wedding will include Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Willis, Hannah Willis, Gertrude Fiske, Mr. and Mrs. Brenton Dickson, Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Dickson, Jr., all of Weston, Dr. and Mrs. William B. Robbins of Marlborough st. and Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner H. Fiske.

ELSIE ROBINSON writes the woman's viewpoint, discusses everyday affairs and problems, Boston Evening American.

Bride Today

Miss Ethel Swenson of Milton is being married at a small family wedding this afternoon to Guy F. DeVoe, Jr., also of Milton. The four o'clock ceremony in the Church of the Holy Spirit is being followed by a small reception at the Hotel Vendome.

The bride's sister, Mrs. William Lien (Dora Swenson) is matron of honor and Mr. Lien, best man. Following a wedding trip to Havana they will live in Quincy.

Society Notes

Mr. and Mrs. C. Otto Zerrahn of Chestnut Hill, Dorothy Preston of Hamilton and Katherine Winthrop of Manchester, are among Bostonians enjoying the autumn season at Hot Springs, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Peabody of Groton are visiting at the Ritz Carlton in New York.

When It's Made With Heinz Tomato Ketchup

RECIPE

SALMON AND CORN FRITTERS

Skin, bone and scale contents of a one-pound tin of salmon. Mix with 1 cup whole-kernel corn, 3 lbs. flour, 2 tbs. Heinz Tomato Ketchup, 2 eggs, slightly beaten, 1 tsp. salt, dash of Heinz Red Pepper Sauce. Drop from tip of a tablespoon into a frying pan with 1/2 inch hot fat. (Makes 24 fritters.) Fry to golden brown on both sides. Serve with green peas or buttered string beans.

PEP UP your old family favorites meat loaves, hashes and stews—with that zesty tang only Heinz Tomato Ketchup can give them. This thrifty sauce is a blend of racy flavors—the thick, simmered-down goodness of Heinz own pedigreed tomatoes, aged-in-wood Heinz Vinegar and rare, delightful spices. Use Heinz Ketchup generously in your everyday cooking. It's richer and thicker. That's why it goes further and tastes far better than ordinary ketchup!

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

SHE'S REWILDERED, hurt, outraged. All because she gave young Eddie's practically new suit to those poor people around the corner—and they've never even bothered to say "thank you."

Which, I suspect, is the way many of us are feeling nowadays. There are so many "poor people around the corner" . . . scads of 'em in every town. Folks who, through no fault of their own or because of deliberate cussedness and laziness, have lost their place in the scheme of things. So we go down in a glorious glow of righteousness and give 'em armfuls of outgrown suits, busted radios, moth-eaten rugs and other impressive junk.

Then return, sore as pups, because they don't exhibit the appropriate thankfulness.

"If you will have nothing to do with such Ungrateful Creatures again, never, never, s'long as we live!"

Which, if we but knew it, is probably as infantile a reaction as we could possibly exhibit. And reminds me of George Moon's comment in Somerset Maugham's unforgettable story, "THE BACK OF BEYOND" from the "Ah King" collection (Doubleday, Doran, publishers).

GEORGE MOON, as you may remember, is a retiring resident in the Far East. On the eve of his departure there comes to him a distracted husband who has just discovered that his wife, the generous, loyal companion of years, has been considerably less than loyal in a certain incident. There can be, the husband feels, no outcome but divorce. And he is the more bitter because the erring wife was formerly a penniless governess who owes all her present ease to his adoring love.

"Don't you think," he cries, "it's a bit thick that when you've been thoroughly decent with people they should go out of their way to do the dirty on you? It's such awful ingratitude."

The older man smiles dryly. Then, out of a more tragic knowledge than the younger man suspects, replies: "Oh, my dear boy, one mustn't expect gratitude. It's a thing that no one has a right to. After all, you do good because it gives you pleasure. It's the purest form of happiness there is. To expect thanks for it is really asking too much. If you get it, well, it's like a bonus on shares on which you've already received a dividend; it's grand, but you mustn't look upon it as your due."

REMEMBER the old saying, "It is more blessed to give than to receive." You can bet it is! And also a lot more fun! If we could have our way, we'd all be on the GIVING line, instead of the RECEIVING. For the fellow who's able to give has the real pride and pleasure. He is truly enjoying the "purest" joy in life. Whereas the fellow who is receiving, however much he may need help, must always be a little humiliated by receiving it, if he has the spunk of a louse.

Does that statement startle and shock you? Then it's probably good for what ails you.

We're simply doing the decent and necessary thing, and getting a Big Kick out of it. Which should be sufficient reward for anyone.

'Sammy Kaye's Swing Stars' Score on RKO Boston Stage

By DON WARD
If you share that irresistible, universal impulse to play bandman, Sammy Kaye and his swing and sway boys at the RKO-Boston will give you your chance this week.

For although the personable Sammy, looking like a high school junior, goes through his best paces and puts his crew of clever instrumentalists through theirs, beyond a doubt it's the boys and girls from the wrong side of the footlights who come pretty near stealing that perfectly swell Kaya show. To be sure, July Canova, pig-tailed and all, landed that role for the crowd tonight. And, incidentally, it was Frankie who took Kaye's crew with shaking hands, with the boss and with show up for the big "So You Want to Lead a Band?" next Wednesday night. It's a smart stunt for Sammy, and the customers get it up.

Featured with the orchestra is the T. Dore Nonchella, a trio of apparently understated boys whose "same old same old" is a little different from the others which is "It's Tommy Ry, and it's a good one for a band to have in their repertoire. The boys and the orchestra are a good one for a band to have in their repertoire.

A new member of the band, Gus Cross, has been brought in, the second of the band's new members. The band is a good one for a band to have in their repertoire. The band is a good one for a band to have in their repertoire.

Comedy for Olympia
"I Love You Again" starring William Powell and Myrna Loy of "Thin Man" fame in a really amusing comedy, and "Lucky Partners" with Robert Coleman and Ginger Rogers in a triangle involving out of their winning swordplay racket, more up and entertaining than starting tomorrow on Washington, D. C. Olympia screen.

These are facts of the life of the T. Dore Nonchella, a trio of apparently understated boys whose "same old same old" is a little different from the others which is "It's Tommy Ry, and it's a good one for a band to have in their repertoire. The boys and the orchestra are a good one for a band to have in their repertoire.

A new member of the band, Gus Cross, has been brought in, the second of the band's new members. The band is a good one for a band to have in their repertoire. The band is a good one for a band to have in their repertoire.

Comedy for Olympia
"I Love You Again" starring William Powell and Myrna Loy of "Thin Man" fame in a really amusing comedy, and "Lucky Partners" with Robert Coleman and Ginger Rogers in a triangle involving out of their winning swordplay racket, more up and entertaining than starting tomorrow on Washington, D. C. Olympia screen.

 EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, OCT. 11, 1940

BLONDIE

THE New York papers gave the previous day's mean temperature as 98.6, blood heat. They prophesied that this day's would exceed that. It would be the thirteenth day of a heat wave which had blanketed the nation, killed nearly a thousand people and threatened to continue indefinitely.

Mervin Furton threw the paper on the floor and glared out the window of the shack on a seacoast of sweltering beach and a calm sea which throbbed in rhythmic motion under a heat haze which looked like glass. Far out along the line of horizon a small boat chugged northward and beyond it a tramp steamer moved drunkenly toward New York Harbor. The beach was deserted. This was Holly, New Jersey, a small fishing hamlet and the shack which housed Mervin, Pearl, his wife, and Eddie Mace, was one of a dozen scattered along the edge of a strip of stunted pine a hundred yards from the water.

Maybe, Mervin reflected gloomily, this wasn't such a good bet for a hide-out for bank robbers on the lam. It was too secluded. A city didn't notice each other's movements. In a small place, whatever anybody did was interesting. Precisely the doing of strangers. That is why the three of them had to stay pretty close to the shore. That is why none of them could go down to the beach and take a swim now and then, even if they had bathing suits, which they hadn't.

Mervin leaned down and picked up the newspaper again and began to fan himself. He was a big man, heavy-jowled and with a paunch. His face and mouth were thin. His eyes were gray. He wore canvas pants and a white polo shirt. He cursed and glared toward the kitchen where Pearl was heating a can of beans on the gas stove.

Pearl's blonde hair was stringy. Her rouge had run on her face. A Hoover apron covered, but revealed her shapely body. She lifted the beans from the stove and dumped a portion on each of three plates on the small kitchen table. She cut some bread and moved it with a knife onto a dish. She took a pot of coffee from the stove and poured three cups full. She put the pot back and lifted her apron to her knees and fanned her legs with it. She said, "Come and eat" and sat down without waiting for him. It was too darn hot to eat and it was even too darn hot to say it was too darn hot. He sprawled in his chair. His eyes came up and his body straightened as Eddie Mace stepped into view and sat down beside Pearl. Eddie was tall and ratty and good-looking in a dark way. He smiled quickly at Pearl. Then his eyes fell on his plate and stayed there while he pried knife and fork.

Eddie, Mervin thought, was too good-looking. A broad smile glowed on his face. Broads did go for him. That was his trouble. Mervin's glance shifted to Pearl, who looked up and caught it and sat questioningly. "Come on and eat, Merv. Your beans are getting cold."

IN LOVE?
Mervin wondered if Pearl liked Eddie. Oh, he knew she liked him. He meant did she like him out of him. Did she like him as she should like him, Mervin, her husband? He felt a bristling at the base of his scalp. A little one because he didn't care a lot about her. He liked Pearl. He didn't feel toward her like he did when he married her. She was a good broad as broads go, but broads were trouble makers. He wondered, just for fun, if Pearl was going for Eddie. He got up and went out to the kitchen and eat down at the table.

"It's too hot," he said with false amiability.
"All right," Pearl agreed, "so that makes it official and we can go on stewing in this dump. When are we getting outta here?"
"You didn't have to come here," Mervin reminded her. "You should have stayed clear out of here. Me and Eddie were doing all right. But no, you had to be with us."

"I wanted to be with you, Merv," Pearl said.
"Well, you're here and you're beginning to squawk," Mervin reminded her, "and I'd just like to know what made you come in the first place."
"I told you," Pearl flared.
"I know you did. And I still want to know the real reason," Mervin looked significantly at Eddie. Eddie kept his eyes on the plate. Pearl started to speak and then shut her lips firmly. Mervin smiled coldly. "How you feeling, Eddie?"

"Oke," Eddie said and raised his head slowly so that his blue eyes bored suddenly into Mervin. "But you ain't so hot. You're getting a little stir crazy. You're getting ideas. I know what I want. Some of it's here. It's in your bed under the mattress. It's three grand and a couple of C's. That's my split on our take from the bank job. That's all I want. All, I tell you."

Mervin flushed and looked away. The guy, he thought, was a mind reader. And why? Was it because he had a guilty conscience? Was he feeling a little yen for Pearl? What was to prevent him? They had been in the shack three weeks. They were seeing each other every waking moment. They were all close to one another. In three weeks, anybody could get strange ideas. Eddie seemed to read his thoughts and his eyes kept boring into Mervin's. Mervin shrugged.
"What's eating you, Eddie?" he apologized. "I don't know what you mean by stir crazy. I know you want your money."
"Forget it," Eddie growled and got up from the table and went to sit on the step leading from the kitchen to the tiny back yard.

"I LIKE HIM"
Pearl stared at Mervin and her lips moved and Mervin knew what she was calling him. He reddened again and his hand automatically came up to strike her. He thought better of it and got up from the table and went back to his chair in the living-room. She watched him and wet her lips with her tongue. She thought.
Even if a girl didn't have ideas,

Mervin would give them a her. But I had the idea already. Eddie's nice. I always was kind of soft at him for the way women fell for him. But I can see why they do. He's nice all over and in every way. He's got nice shoulders and nice eyes and a nice mouth. He treats a woman as if she was a lady. I like him.
I don't mean I like him in the wrong way. I wouldn't give one of Mervin's little fingers for his whole body. But I have got to admit that Eddie is a gentleman in every sense of the word. I wonder how he loves the gals that get so crazy about him. I wonder does he kiss their hands? I wonder if he's gentle got it. She had to have excitement and she didn't care how she got that either.

TOO RISKY
It was Mervin's fault that she was here. He had told her where this hide-out was, even while they were planning to knock off the bank in Hillfield. She made it tough for them because she increased the chances of the law catching up with them. Two men looking together in a shack was normal. It looked all right. But two men and a woman in a small shack didn't look good because it wasn't natural. People seeing them started to figure it out. Were the two men brothers, or was one a sister to the woman, or—It didn't look right.

Two men and a woman couldn't get along, no matter how you juggled them. And two men like Eddie and Mervin wouldn't get along with a woman like Pearl on the spot because she'd see they didn't. She'd make trouble. She had been trying to make trouble ever since she had followed them here.

And how did Mervin figure a two-third split on the nine grand they'd gotten from the bank? He said he had figured the job and planned it. All Eddie, he said, had done, was to help him with the stick-up. Well, where would he be if Eddie hadn't helped him? There wouldn't be any stick-up or any loot. He was getting tired of Mervin. He didn't like any part of him. And he was getting to like him less every minute. If he started anything, Eddie promised himself, he'd lay him cold. And he'd boot Pearl into the ocean.

Heat rolled up and enclosed the shack. It beat and hammered and smothered. Mervin sat cursing to himself. Pearl tightened up in a knot and fanned her legs with her apron. Eddie looked at them and sneered. He wished Mervin would make just one pass. Just one! Thunder rumbled out of the ocean. Heat lightning winked and disappeared. Clouds formed and advanced. A breeze came out of nowhere. It blew steadily. The storm brooded and battered the world. Police moved in with guns from among the stunted pines. Eddie looked up and two of them were there, covering him. He raised his hands as he stood up. He looked over his shoulders and said.

"Hey, Pearl and Mervin. Visitors."
Pearl stopped fanning her legs and sucked as she raised her hands. Mervin raised his hands but he stayed sitting where he was. He began to chuckle.
"Believe it or not, boys," he said to the policemen, "I'm glad to see you. You're as welcome as the breeze. This shack is as hot as an oven."

40 MICHIGAN ELEVEN INVADES HUB

A triumphant troupe of 32 Michigan players, accompanied by a group of pressmen from hither and yon, arrived at the South Station this a. m. and then hustled over to the Harvard Stadium to get a look at tomorrow's battleground.

After an early afternoon workout, the entire Wolverine contingent will retire to the Belmont Country Club until just before game time.

The "Michigan Daily", undergraduate paper, fails to treat the game with Harvard as anything but a breather. Harvard is respected

50,000 to See Game

The Harvard A. A. boasted that a 50,000 sellout was in prospect for the Harvard-University of Michigan football game in the Stadium tomorrow.

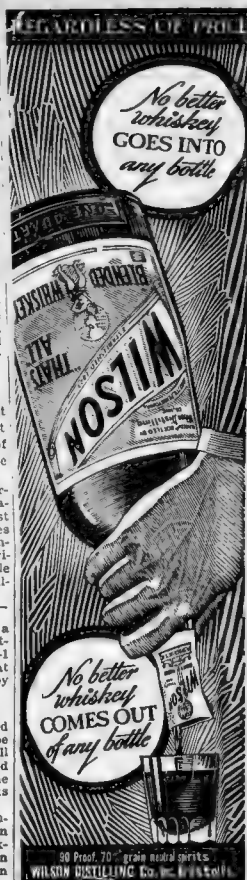

An added attraction of tomorrow's game pits two of the nation's best collegiate bands against each other in a between-the-halves duel. The Michigan outfit, numbering 150 players, won All-American band honors last year, while the Harvard band also is nationally famous.

throughout the world as a brain factory, but not as a football powerhouse. At least a 4-1 favorite, Michigan with its great Tommy Harmon should win by a comfortable margin.

MICHIGAN THREE DEEP

How good is Harmon? Harvard scouts say that you can't describe him in words. They say that all you can do is see him play and then you can understand why he is called one of the greatest backs in grid history.

Michigan will outweigh the Cantabs about eight pounds a man in the line and about ten in the backfield. Michigan is three deep in every position while Harlow can

B. U. Plays Manhattan

New York, Oct. 11. Boston University, despite its two victories, is a decided underdog in its coming clash with Manhattan at the Polo Grounds here this evening.

Making their 1940 debut under lights the Boston eleven riddled by injuries is not conceded much chance to avenge their last defeat in the hands of the Jasper. Manhattan after its 21 to 18 loss to George Washington last Friday night is out to make amends and hopes to do so at the expense of Pat Hanley's charges.

The Terriers, though, refuse to concede any such thing as defeat and have every intention of playing 60 minutes of winning football. And many of them will have to play the entire 60 minutes as injuries to Ken Skoropowski, Carl Erickson and Ed Rooney have depleted the available linemen considerably.

young Brookline resident and a member of the Eagle varsity elevens for the past three years, has been named to the honor by Head Coach Frank Leahy, who, in accordance with the plan voted last fall by the gridgers, selects a captain or captains for each contest.

Tackle Joe Manzo and Second String Guard Frank Galvani were co-captains in charge the day Boston College opened with Centre. End Gene Gladchuk and Center Chester Gladchuk did the honors during the Tulane game. Only senior lettermen of last fall are eligible for the appointments.

This afternoon, the Leahy Eagles were to taper off with a review of the plays, old and new, which will be employed against the Owls.

Tomorrow, Boston College will field a full squad. Some of the men, however, will, because of major and minor bumps and bruises, have to be used sparingly. Center Gladchuk, whose Thursday appearance in uniform was the first outing since the Tulane contest, may get a starting nod tomorrow. Gladchuk, whom New Orleans newsmen placed in the same All-America

Yankees Send Former Ivy Stars Against Bears

Boasting a brilliant group of former Ivy College stars, the New York Yankees will bring a strong team to Fenway Park on Sunday afternoon to play the Boston Bears in an American Professional Football League contest.

Heading the Yankees roster is Bill Hutchinson the former Dartmouth star, who is the only player in Harvard athletic history to score three touchdowns and a safety against the Crimson in one game. Bill did this in the 1937 Harvard-Dartmouth game when he galloped 63 yards, 55 yards, and two yards to score touchdowns and later recovered a Dartmouth fumble in his own end zone to score a safety for Harvard.

YANKIES LOST TO BULLS

The Yankees have three other players who have played in the Harvard stadium: George Seabury, the 6 foot 6, 265-pound tackle from Yale; Spencer Manrodt, a teammate of Tommy Nash's at Brown and a star guard for Tufts McLaughry for three seasons; and Hatland Gustafson, last season's brilliant end and captain from Pennsylvania. Gustafson scored against Harvard in the Stadium last season.

The Yankees have played only one game in the newly formed American League. Last Sunday, while the Bears were welcoming Cincinnati 29-7, the Yankees were losing to the Columbus Bulls 23-13. The Bulls, League champions last season, had previously beaten the Bears 17-0.

BEARS STRESS AIR ATTACK

Coach Casey plans to utilize his new-found passing attack against the Yankees. Last Sunday against the Bengals, the Bears completed 16 out of 19 passes for 130 yards.

Ernie Wheeler and Andy Karpus were the spearheads in the Boston aerial attack, each throwing nine. Wheeler completed four out of nine for a 32 yard gain while Karpus was successful in six of nine for 34 yards.

Many of the Bears new passing plays develop from a new formation which the Bears have been practicing all week. Six different Bears plays completed losses against the Bengals.

Aces Favored Over Huskies

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 11—Springfield College rules a slight favorite over Northeastern University for their football game here tomorrow. The Maroons scored a 19-13 victory in 1939.

Neither team will be manned by veterans, with Northeastern starting no less than nine sophomores. Only real veterans at Springfield are Donald Grant at tackle and Sam Schiffer at guard. The 1939 Husky holdovers are Captain Dean Williams at tackle and Charlie Abend at guard.

Two Greater Boston boys, Ken Gurney of Winchester and Dave Dockham of Somerville will start in the Springfield line-up. Gurney will do the blocking and Dockham will do much of the ball carrying. Dave captained the Gymnast's freshman team last year.

Northeastern will be somewhat weak at tackle, because Art Handler of Brooklyn will be out for the Jewish holiday. Handler was rated as the standout reserve but Jim Jefferson and Fred Cusick will fill in if Captain Williams and Jensen need relief.

Prominent leaders in rifle shooting throughout New England continued today to extol the virtues of the William Randolph Hearst Citizen Marksmanship Competition which is being sponsored in these parts by the Boston American-Record.

Captain "Pete" Lambert of the Massachusetts Rifle Association, one of the finest veteran figures in the sport, was especially fulsome in his praise of Mr. Hearst's county-wide competition.

"It's a marvellous thing Mr. Hearst is doing," said Captain Lambert as he gladly accepted a membership on the Hearst Shoot competitions committee.

ATTRACTS HIGHEST TYPE

"This country of ours was captured by riflemen and it will be held by riflemen," he continued. It is timely, too. Because once again the nation looks to its marksmen and must find them among our rifle organizations. Expert riflemen will play a major role in our scheme of national defense.

"Furthermore there is no finer or cleaner sport. There has never been a gunman or gangster in our ranks and we have men with us who reflect nothing but the highest credit on our citizenship."

Capt. Lambert is a veteran of a club composed of veterans in large part. He was president of the Massachusetts Rifle Association for four years and rangemaster for as many more. He is now chairman of the rifle committee.

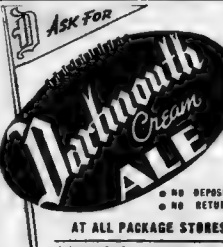

It is the proud boast of this organization that it is the oldest rifle range in the United States in point of operating service. It was incorporated in 1875 and is holding its many regular shoots at East Woburn.

CAN SHOW YOUNGSTERS

The club is made up of a selected group of crack shots and has a long waiting list from year to year. Leading figures in the business and professional world are found in its membership list.

"We are the older men of the sport," Lambert states. "But we have been at rifle shooting all our lives and we can still hold our own with the youngsters. We'll let them know we are in the field anytime we compete against them."

By JACK CONWAY

TOM HARMON of Michigan, a one-man football team, is expected to dazzle the great crowd that will jam the Stadium tomorrow afternoon to see him in action against Dick Harlow's Harvard eleven. Harmon, a half-back, is the outstanding star in college football today. Last Saturday Harmon scored all of Michigan's 21 points against Michigan State. During the 1939 campaign, Harmon made most of Michigan's touchdowns.

Harmon runs with a high knee action much as Eddie Mahan of Harvard did. This running style is tough on would-be tacklers.

Harmon is a whirling, dancing, deceptive runner. Frequently when his path is blocked by two or three rival players, he moves with such amazing speed and change of pace that he is able to get free and continue his run.

Harmon is a senior at Michigan. During his early days at Michigan, Harmon was a storm center in view of the claims that more than a score of leading colleges tried to get this brilliant 195-pound halfback to enter their classes. It was charged at the time that some of these offers included cost of tuition, room and meals and incidental expenses. Harmon turned down all of these bids to remain at Michigan where he is Coach Crisler's chief star.

The colleges which are understood to have tried to land Harmon included Dartmouth, Tulane, Purdue, Illinois, Indiana, Chicago, Northwestern, Alabama, Louisiana State, Yale, Princeton, Michigan State, Southern California, Pittsburgh, Cornell and Washington.

Tom Stephenson stated that the ticket sale for Saturday's game has already passed the 30,000 mark. This indicates that at least 40,000 persons will be in the Stadium when Harmon puts on his show.

Michigan Choice to Beat Crimson

MICHIGAN IS A choice to win from Harvard. The Western college will make Harmon the spearhead of its driving, whirling attack.

Harvard should show to better advantage than it did against Amherst last Saturday when it barely edged out a 13 to 0 victory. The score was 0 to 0 at the end of the first half, and the Crimson was obliged to cut loose with everything it had in the football line in order to win.

Dick Harlow says his eleven will show a better game in the test with Michigan. The players will have had more time in which to perfect some of the new formations Harlow has lined up for them.

If Harvard could come through with a victory over Michigan, Harvard's football hopes would take a decided pickup. The spirit of the players and rooters would improve to a point where most anything could be possible in the remaining games on the schedule. Off the record of past performances one is obliged to string along with Michigan until Harvard shows more football ability than it has so far this season.

YOST A BARNUM, SAYS FREEMAN

By BILL CORUM

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (INS)—Name any play at any spot on the field in the past 40 years of Michigan football history, give Fielding H. (Hurry-Up) Yost a moment to reflect, then provoke him into describing it.

Chairs, tables and people, knives and forks, or fruit, napkins and rolls will soon be deployed all over the place as the grand old man of Michigan combs his phenomenal memory for the details, and goes through the fine points with the rest of a youngest.

See him in action once, and it becomes easy to understand the reverence of Michigan alumni. But Yost, by compulsion, is coming to the trail's end.

YOST HEADS FOR HUB

Yost will be 70 on April 29, 1941. That is retirement age, and he will give way reluctantly to Fritz Criesler, although it should be easy after having resigned himself to giving up his initial clog for following a serious illness a year ago. Yost was due to pass through here today on his way to Cambridge and the Harvard-Michigan game.

Old-timers and present-day players alike, including Tom Harmon and Forest Evashevski, refer to Yost affectionately as "the coach," although he has not officially been head coach since 1926.

Benny Friedman, now the City College coach here, was the star of that team, which scored two touchdowns in the first minute against a strong Wisconsin team, beat Minnesota twice and won the Western Conference championship.

Friedman virtually worships Yost. "The old man's philosophy of football was very simple," he explains. "It was, 'Barnum was right.' He believed there was a sucker to be found on every team, and he used to capitalize on it in many instances."

"He used to devote a lot of attention and conversation to his quarterback, and he spent a lot of time with me."

TICKLED BY SUCKER PLAY

"He always advised me to look for Barnum's disciple on the other team. I'll never forget the first time we played 'old 83' against Navy in 1925. "It's a Yost invention and just about the most famous of sucker plays. When I lateralled the ball to Bill Herstein, he was away for a touchdown without an opponent in the vicinity. I looked over at the old man, and he was standing there on the sideline with his head thrown back and laughing hilariously."

"That was the type of play that gave him a kick. He believed, not in power, but in finesse, passing, faking people out of position. He had two fundamentals of quarterback play: first, look over the defense; second, play for position laterally. He always emphasized that a quarterback can either make it easy or hard for a team to score."

All of his stars have anecdotes to tell about Yost, and through the mail runs the same motif—that of the old man's zest for the game.

YOST TOUGH

A story told by Germany Schulz, an all-America center of the old days, is in point.

"Dad," he was referring to Yost, "used to get right in there and show us how it was done. He was rough and tough in those days, but a football player likes a rough cookie. Anyway, he got down in the line one day, stogie and all, and threw a block into Herstein that shook him from top to bottom."

"On the next play Herstein not only returned the compliment, but also knocked him out, he hit so hard. That stogie was smashed to a pulp."

"When the old man came to, he just bounced up and yelled 'Atta boy, Herie, that's what I mean!'"

Zuppke Plans Big Surprise For Trojans

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 11 (AP)—Robert Carl Zuppke, who works in football and oils, may unveil one of his famed surprise masterpieces tomorrow afternoon. The "Rembrandt of Old Champaign," whose works of art on canvas are almost as widely known as his works of art on the gridiron, will send his Illinois football team against Southern California's Trojans.

Illinois will be the underdog. Illinois will be outwitted. And Illinois has been routed in its last two games with the West Coast eleven.

All of which may set the stage for another of the upsets for which the wily "Zup" long has been famed—an upset which would splash a distinctly rosy glow on what is now a rather gloomy Illinois football picture.

Zuppke wants to win this one. He wants to win it as much as he wanted to win against Michigan last fall, when the heavily favored Michigan eleven and Tom Harmon ran into a stunning 16 to 7 reversal. And Zup and his players apparently are in the same frame of mind as they were the week preceding that amazing win over Michigan.

Illinois chances for victory Saturday, aside from the psychological keying up which Zup will give his squad right up to kickoff time, may ride largely on the shoulders of little Jimmy Easterbrook, who can run and pass.

St. Brigid's Eleven Tackles Finn Club

St. Brigid's undefeated football eleven will meet the Finn Club of Cambridge on Sunday at St. Brigid's home field, Aquarium Field in South Boston. St. Brigid's has already played three games, being St. John's of Roxbury, and the Newton Redskins and defeating a team of All-Stars from Somerville.

St. Brigid's was undefeated and untied in 9 games last year. Coached by Charlie Peck, former Fordham All-American, St. Brigid's will continue to play all comers on every Sunday during October and November.

Cadets Confident Of Stopping Cornell

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 11 (INS)—A record breaking crowd was expected to storm West Point tomorrow to witness the spectacular gridiron clash between the Army and the powerful football battalions of Cornell at Michie stadium.

With Cornell highly favored, Army nevertheless was confident of turning in one of the major upsets of the year.

H. C. AWAITS CARNEGIE

WORCESTER, Oct. 11 (INS)—Dinner excitement today featured Holy Cross' football practice as the Crusaders hoped to gain the win column against Carnegie tomorrow.

Fordham Maps Air Attack For Tulane

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (INS)—With Steve Filipowicz hurling the passes, Fordham today mapped an aerial campaign against Tulane in an effort to spread the defense of the Green wave to enable the Ram backs to gallop unhampered.

Filipowicz and his receivers—End Vince Denney and Jim Lansing and Quarterback Jim Noble—went through a series of intensive passing drills the past few days, working on the attack against Tulane.

Coach Jimmy Crowley feels that if the Ram passes click, Tulane also will be unable to cope with the fleet ground attack fashioned around Len Eshmont and Jim Blumenstock.

Two Feature Bouts In Bowser's Opener

A double windup, rather than one main bout, will feature Promoter Paul Bowser's opening wrestling tournament of the season next Wednesday night at the Arena, according to an announcement made by Bowser.

In one of the twin features, Steve Casey, big Irishman and former champion of the world, will tangle with Gino Garibaldi of New York, and in the other Man Mountain Dean, big Georgia hill billy and more recently a movie actor, meets Gene Bowman, the Tennessee University football star.

Five bouts in all will comprise the opening card.

Boxing Results

WATERBURY, Ct.—Ernest "Cal" Robinson, Jamaica, N. Y., kayced Francesco Montanari, Italy, 4. Jimmy Bell, New Haven, kayced Leo Manelli, Bronxville, N. Y., 5. Don Fantini, Reading, Pa., won a decision over Johnny Campo, New Haven.

PORTLAND, Me.—Frank C. Nelson, Portland, won the judges' decision over Vince Pampasini, Brooklyn, 10. Harry William Winters, won over Jimmy Cook, Rumford, 6.

rich, has been bothered by a bad bruise on his right knee. Today's season was to determine Chester's status for tomorrow's game. If he's in shape, Chet will work with a starting lineup which, under certain conditions, may contain some strange faces.

Significant changes will occur in the backfield, if the Eagles lose the pre-game coin toss and are forced to work against the wind—if there is a wind. If such is the case Bob Jaaron, who has shown great improvement in recent practice sessions, will get the call at left half-back and So Long Louie Montgomery will go at the other half-back slot. Henry "The Hammer" Tozylowski, All-America "locking back and "Mighty Mike" Holovak, bucking back will complete the starting quartet. Of this backfield, only "Tozzy", who'll have to go easy tomorrow because, like Gladchuk, he's favoring a knee, started against Tulane.

Should the Eagles win the toss the same quartet—Tozylowski, Rourke, Maznicki and Kissell—which opened in New Orleans will quite likely face the determined Compas.

Though Joe Zabalski, the Providence Strong Boy, is slated for left guard, there's a distinct possibility that Leahy may have to go to a third stringer, sophomore Joe Caprio, for a starter. Zabalski has been bothered by an ankle sprain since the Centre game.

Sellout Rumors

Spiking a report that the Eagles-Temple game at Fenway Park tomorrow was close to being a sellout, B. C. A. A. officials announced today that there are still plenty of good seats available, including a number of choice spots between the 40-yard line.

Tickets may be purchased at the B. C. A. A. office, Fenway Park, Filene's Men's Store and the downtown sporting goods stores.

Second stringer Dave White also isn't in the pink, Dave has been carrying rib injuries for two weeks now and further aggravated the members in scrimmages three days ago. Zabalski, though, is a pretty good bet as a starter. Joe is from the old school. Questioned this morning about his status for tomorrow's game Zabalski replied, simply but emphatically:

"I'll be in there. We want this one."

Though some of the so-called experts are giving the decision to the Eagles by two, three and four touchdowns, the Boston College gridders are expecting all kinds of trouble from the Ray Morrison coached Owls. The Eagles aren't just about dix up a few subs. Michigan is picked as one of the leading contenders for the Big Ten title while the Crimson are ranked near the bottom of the Ivy League. Some say that Harvard might win because this is a season of upsets, but there is only one team in the country with a Harmon and Harvard has to count him.

Michigan Invades Stadium

BACK TO HAUNT HARLOW

Michigan will use many of the Harvard plays which Harlow brought from his Maryland hide-out. Bucking Back Westfall uses many of the same plays which brought Vern Struck the title of "the magnificent faker."

Tom Harmon is used chiefly on end sweeps after Westfall has ridden the center of the line. The rest of the invaders backfield would warn any coach's heart. Forest Evashevski, the captain, is rated as the best blocking back in the mid-west, while Jack "The Nelson" right half, is a whippet edition of Al Marsters of yesterday.

Dick Harlow has equipped his team with a defense which may stop Harvard from snapping over the Crimons. To halt the Hoosier Hammer on end sweeps, Harlow moved Joe Koufman from guard to end. Loren Macklinney, one of the best defensive ends ever in the Crimons, wears handle things in his quarter. The Harvard guards, Peabody and Lowry, are good enough to cause Westfall plenty of trouble on his line spinners.

Seldom has a Harvard team exhibited more spirit than they have shown this week. Every session has been long and intensive. Most of the members of the team feel that if they play their best an upset may be in order, because Michigan seems to think the game will be a pushover.

The local boys are members of the Michigan squad. At center is Bob Ingalls of Maribhead. Ingalls ranks with the great Wolverines as a second string snapperback last year and when Evashevski was hurt late in the season he was moved to blocking back. Other local members of the Amherst team in place of Lou Cunningham of Revere and Clarence Hall of Raynham, both subs who have seen action in both of the Westerner's games.

WALDSTEIN MAY SURPRISE

Bill Brown will be in the starting backfield for Harvard in place of Joe Gardella who will serve as Spreyer's sub at tailback.

Dick Harlow will uncover a new back tomorrow who promises to make quite a name before he leaves Harvard. Mort Waldstein, a soph, will spell Brown and will be close watching. He is the punter on the Harvard squad and a top-notch line smasher.

BILLY CONN MOST POPULAR BOXER IN GAME TODAY

Boston's first professional boxing show of the season, bringing together champion Billy Conn and Al McCoy at the Garden next Friday night, is likely to lure a capacity crowd with the arrival of Conn in the Hub city creating a lively interest and making the box-office business brisk.

The curly-haired 175-pound king from Pittsburgh, who looks more like a matinee idol than the foremost menace to Joe Louis, has caught the fancy of the local fans and the usually glum Rip Valenti, matchmaker for the Goodwin A. C., is grinning for he finds his forthcoming fight a click.

After trying, without much success, to give the local leather-throwers a chance, Valenti swung into promotions of national prominence last season, bringing champions Henry Armstrong and Lou Ambers here and N. E. apparently wants to see the title-holders.

Conn is the most popular figure in the ring today, a young, handsome, clean-living kid of Irish descent who is a master boxer and a destructive hitter of the Corbett-Tunney-Loughran type. There are experts who say that a year from now he will be ready to step in and box the ears off Joe Louis. They say there's no possible way in which he can miss.

RULES GOVERNING THE FOOTBALL CONTEST

The object of the Daily Record-American Football Contest is to select winners of twenty collegiate football games, to be played each Saturday. Anyone may enter the contest, excepting employees of the Record-American and their families.

The selections are listed on the chart here which is ready to be filled out by the contestant. Simply place an (X) in the space marked the name of the team you think will win, or if you predict a tie game, place the letter (T) in the space nearest the name of the losing team.

Calculate the AVERAGE score of all competing teams, except those for which you predicted a tie score. Write winners' and losers' average scores in space provided in coupon. Do not write individual scores in space, or on the coupon. Indicate average scores only by adding scores of all teams and then divide the total by the number of teams competing.

Only ONE selection may be entered by a contestant. All entries must be in the office of the Record-American and later this Saturday Friday, the day before the games.

You need not buy a copy of the Record or American to enter this contest. Receipts of the contest form may be made from copies in the public library, or in the Record-American office. Each entry will be receipted, and given most consideration with those clipped from these newspapers.

A prize of $100.00 will be awarded the person whose entries contain all selections correct. If more than one person submits perfect selections $100.00 will be awarded the fellow contestant whose average score is nearest the actual average scores of the games. If no perfect list of selections is entered, $50.00 will be awarded to the contestant having the nearest number of selections correct and should two or more contestants tie for this prize the fellow contestant submitting the most nearly correct average scores will receive the award. A prize of $25.00 will be awarded the person submitting the second largest number of correct selections and should two or more contestants tie for this prize the fellow contestant submitting the most nearly correct average scores will receive the prize. Twenty-five awards of $1.00 each will be given the twenty-five contestants whose entries contain in succession, the most largest number of correct selections and whose average scores most nearly match the actual average scores of the games.

Winners of each week's contest will be announced on the Saturday following the games. The decision of the judges in all cases shall be final.

All entries to the Record-American Football Contest Editor, P. O. Box 1587, Boston, Mass., in the event of postponement of any or all games will automatically be extended from the contest. In the event that the planned date of any game scheduled is changed then that entry is automatically extended.

Boston Bound

It's farewell to Rhode Island, hello Massachusetts . . . as Wendell L. Willkie's campaign party swings across the state line for his invasion of the Bay State. Here, the Republican standard bearer bids goodbye to Rhode Island's Governor, William Vanderbilt, and is in turn greeted by Gov. Saltonstall . . . with Joe Martin also present.
